Jewish Forces Step Up Drive On Arab Jaffa

Manshieh Quarter Taken, Irgun Says

JERUSALEM, April 28 (AP)—Irgun Zvai Leumi claimed capture of the Manshieh quarter of Jaffa tonight and sped troops and equipment to the front to maintain the battering thrust of its drive into the all-Arab city.

Before nightfall the Jewish underground army raised the blue and white Hebrew flag over the Manshieh quarter's Hassan Beq Mosque. Manshieh sticks out like a mile-long thumb into the no-man's land separating Jaffa from all-Jewish Tel Aviv.

Irgun troops and equipment convoys were seen moving out of Tel Aviv tonight into the no-man's land. A high Irgun commander said the assault on Jaffa would continue despite British warnings.

Irgun was aided in its Manshieh drive today by Haganah, the regular Jewish militia, which staged strong pre-dawn attacks on at least four suburbs in an Arab defense arc east and southeast of Jaffa. A Haganah spokesman said, however, that although the attacks were complementary, they had not been intended that way.

He said the new Irgun-Haganah military accord was not applicable to this phase of Irgun's battle for Jaffa.

RAF Goes Into Action

While the British and Haganah announced that Royal Air Force planes machine-gunned Jewish positions at Bat Yam, near Jaffa, crowds in Tel Aviv cheered returning Jewish warriors who jauntily wore captured red tarbouches — the Arab fez — as symbols of victory in Manshieh.

Residents of all-Jewish Tel Aviv were warned to be ready to take to first floor rooms and basements in event the British shell the city in retaliation. There was no indication from Tel Aviv that such action had begun.

Meanwhile, King Abdullah, of Trans-Jordan, ignoring British denials, told a reporter in Amman his Arab Legionnaires had occupied the Biblical town of Jericho, 20 miles northeast of Jerusalem, with "scout troops which always precede the regular army." An Associated Press reporter went directly to Jericho. He was told by the Legion commander the troops were there only under British orders to protect British evacuation routes from Palestine.

Associated Press Correspondent Max Boyd, who arrived in Jerusalem today from Cairo, saw at least one train of 25 or 30 cars loaded with guns and vehicles of the Egyptian army moving toward the Southern Palestine frontier. There was still no official news that any Arab army had actually crossed the frontier.

No Invasion, Marshall Told

(United States Secretary of State George Marshall told newsmen in Washington that the United States had been assured by an Arab League spokesman that Arab armies are not invading Palestine at this time. Marshall said he believed they would not do so.)

House Group Approves Anti-Communist Bill

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—A "tough" anti-Communist bill was approved today by the House Committee on un-American Activities.

It would authorize the criminal prosecution of Communist Party officials and require the party to disclose its membership to the Department of Justice.

Communists would be denied non-elective federal jobs, and would be forbidden passports.

The committee wants to call the bill up for action in the House next week.

Mediation Board Seeks To Head Off Rail Strike

Two Big Unions Call Walkout For May 11

CHICAGO, April 28 — (AP)— Two big rail unions representing the firemen and enginemen and the switchmen called a nationwide strike for May 11, but a third union —the engineers'—did not join in the strike call.

A strike by the two unions alone could paralyve the nation's railroad transportation system.

However, the National Railway Mediation Board intervened immediately in an eleventh-hour attempt to sidetrack the strike. It called representatives of the railroads and unions involved to meet with the board members in Chicago tomorrow.

J. P. Shields, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said, his union has "not made up its mind if and when a strike date will be set."

Wage Talks Collapse

All three operating unions broke off wage talks with representatives of the nation's railroads last night. They announced formally that a strike call would be issued at 9:30 a. m. Central Standard Time today.

The strike call was not made at that time. However, in Cleveland, a spokesman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen announced the strike had been set for 6 a. m., May 11.

Except for the last-minute peace effort of the mediation board, all other peace-promoting steps provided by the National Railway Labor Act have been exhausted. The 15,000 members of the three unions involved are bound by the Railway Labor Act, but not the Taft-Hartley labor law Congress enacted last year.

Thus the government could not go into court for an injunction as it did in the recent soft coal strike.

The strike threat stemmed from a demand by the unions for a 30 per cent pay hike with a minimum raise of $3 a day and changes in working rules.

Wage Boost Offer Rejected

The three unions turned down a recommendation of an emergency fact-finding board for a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour. Two other operating brotherhoods—the railway trainmen and railway conductors—accepted the wage recommendation. Earlier, about 1,000,000 non-operating rail workers in 16 unions accepted the 15½ cents hourly wage increase.

However, the trains cannot operate without the three unions involved in the present dispute. Any strike by them would force a complete halt in rail transportation.

The railroads were paralyzed by a two-day strike of two operating unions—including the engineers—two years ago. The strike was called off just before President Truman was to have the Army take over the lines under his wartime seizure powers.

Murray Blasts Wallace's Party As "Divisionist"

Communist Creation, CIO President Says

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 28 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray denounced the third party today as "divisionist" and said it was launched at a Communist Party meeting in New York last October.

"The Communist Party is directly responsible for the organization of a third party in the United States," Murray told the CIO Textile Workers Union convention.

"There is no question about that."

Murray did not mention Henry Wallace's name during a half hour he devoted to the third party and Communism. Murray said the party "was inaugurated at a Communist Party meeting in the City of New York in October, 1947."

In Des Moines tonight, Wallace said Murray's charge "is nonsense."

As he arrived in Des Moines during his third party presidential campaign, he issued the following statement:

"As the founder of the new party I am amazed to hear Phil Murray use the same tactic in opposing our party that was used so long ago and unsuccessfully against the CIO.

"Phil knows his statement is nonsense.

"It always makes me sad to see a man who has performed great progressive services bow to hysteria, but I think the issues will become a lot clearer to Phil as he fights for the wage increases his steel workers need.

"Phil should know that the issue is not Communism, but the grip of monopolists on our foreign and domestic policies.

"I hope Phil will find some positive program to offer and it might be a good idea for him to announce the name of the candidate for whom he is working and the candidate's stand on Taft-Hartley, segregation, the wage freeze proposals, and the draft."

C. Of C. Endorses Defense Program

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce tonight endorsed President Truman's military preparedness program in its entirety.

Without dissent the chamber urged Congress to furnish "adequate appropriations" for defense.

Chamber delegates, at their annual session here, underscored the defense resolution by separately declaring in favor of the draft. Again unanimously, they said selected service should be temporary only and ended when the armed forces can be kept at needed strength by volunteers.

These were among 31 policy statements approved with little debate. But the session bogged down in what promised to be a late-at-night argument on public water and power.

A proposed resolution, urging curtailment of government power development, was at issue. It would hit at the Tennessee Valley Authority by disapproving the proposed building of a $52,000,000 steam-generating plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn.

The body also endorsed: Immediate statehood for Hawaii; admission of a "reasonable number" of European displaced persons to this country, and the lowering of state barriers to trade within the United States.

Two Suspects In Reuther Shooting Are Arrested

DETROIT, April 28 (INS)—Detroit police arrested two new suspects in connection with the shotgun shooting of UAW-CIO President Walter Reuther tonight in what may prove to be the first real break in the case that has baffled detectives for more than a week.

Inspector Joseph V. Krug, of the special investigation squad, said one of the men had access to a red automobile on the night Reuther was shot and seriously wounded.

Bill To Remove Federal Levies Sent To Senate

Count Is 260-106; Party Lines Split

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The House today passed a bill to repeal all federal margarine taxes—after squabbling for three hours over what shape a package of oleo should take. The vote was 260 to 106.

The bill, which would repeal laws that have been on the books for 62 years, now goes to the Senate.

But even if the Senate and President Truman approve the bill, many a housewife still won't be able to buy her margarine already colored.

It's against the law to sell colored oleo in these states:

Some other states impose special licenses or taxes on oleo.

The federal taxes which the bill passed today would appeal are:

Ten cents a pound on colored oleo; one-fourth cent a pound on uncolored; $600 a year tax on manufacturers; $480 on wholesalers of colored oleo; $200 on wholesalers of the uncolored product; $48 on retailers of colored oleo; $6 on retailers of uncolored.

Amendments Defeated

Amendment after amendment was brought up today by congressmen from dairy states. But each time they were beaten.

This cleared the way for the vote on the repeal measure itself.

Generally speaking, those from dairy states opposed the bill. They said it would wreck the dairy industry.

Those from the South (a lot of cotton seed oil goes into oleo) and those from the cities (a lot of housewives have complained they don't like to color oleo) wanted the tax taken off. They said it is unfair to the consumer.

Rep. Gross (R-Pa), an opponent of repeal of the oleo taxes, brought in the politics. He pointed out that Harold Stassen, who has said he doesn't favor the repeal of oleo taxes, got a large vote yesterday in Pennsylvania.

"You Republican suckers," he shouted at his fellow Republicans favoring the bill. "This thing was too hot for the New Deal to handle. But look at you."

Democrat Assails Democrats

To even things up, a Democrat fighting repeal jumped on the Democrats battling for oleo. He said he didn't understand their willingness to handle a "hot potato" now when they didn't do anything about it during the 16 years the Democrats controlled Congress.

Rep. Chelf (D-Ky) said he thought taxes, including the $6,000,000 annual margarine tax, should not be reduced at a time when a heap of money is needed for the armed forces.

"I am more concerned," he said, "with the protection of our borderlines than I am in the protrusion of our waistlines."

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY) said that in her opinion oleo should be "virgin white."

"If it's so perfect," she asked, "why does it need another color?"

It costs a lot of money, said Mrs. St. George, to run a dairy farm, because—

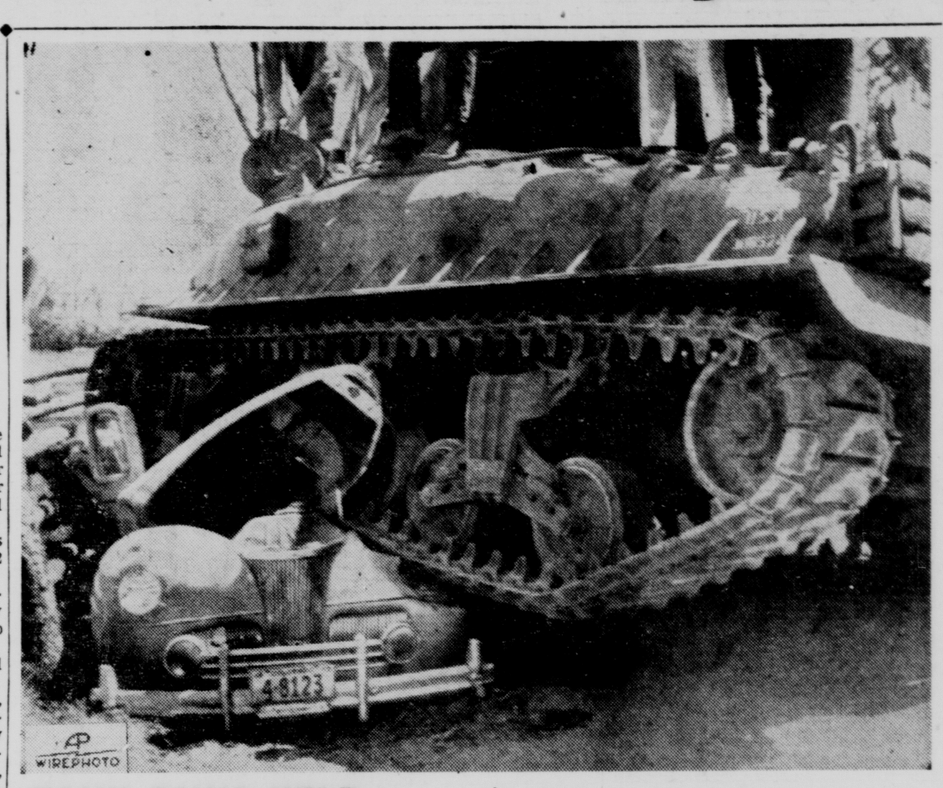
"Cows are feminine, and like all things feminine, it takes a lot of hard work if you want to keep them.

"They don't like cheap competition."

State Revenue Booms

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 28 (AP)—Car registrations, sales and income taxes helped boom Maryland revenue to $17,679,117 in March, Comptroller James L. Lacy's monthly fiscal statement showed today.

Receipts were almost $10,000,000 greater than in last March, and upped income for the fiscal year to date to $99,661,499.



TANK RUNS WILD—A 1941 sedan was crushed when a 36-ton General Sherman tank went out of control on a Fort Collins, Colo., street. The tank had been used in an ROTC show at Colorado A. and M. College and was being driven by National Guard officers when it went berserk. No one was in the automobile.

Lewis And Bridges Move To Activate Pension Fund

Leader Of Mine Union Named Administrator

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — John L. Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today began getting things ready to pay elderly coal miners their $100-a-month pensions if the courts don't prevent.

Lewis and Bridges, two of the pension fund trustees, announced:

1. The appointment of an administrator (Lewis).

2. The appointment of a director, Miss Josephine Roche, (associate of Lewis).

3. That the paper work will require "several weeks." No pensions before that.

Lewis and Bridges went this far in the face of a suit by a coal operator, Ezra Van Horn, who is the third pension fund trustee. Van Horn says they can't go ahead without his approval, and he hasn't given it. He wants the court to make Lewis and Bridges personally liable if they start the money flowing under their plan.

Van Horn Backs One Motion

The Lewis-Bridges plan calls for payments to miners of 62 or older with 20 years' service and retired after May 29, 1946.

The United Mine Workers president and the New Hampshire Senator forged ahead with their proposal in a meeting with Van Horn. The operator trustee approved one motion. This calls for investment of $25,000,000 of the miners welfare and retirement fund in government short-term bonds.

Lewis and his 400,000 soft coal miners are now under injunction against striking. This came after the miners were out six weeks' because no pension agreement had been reached with the operators. Bridges accepted an invitation to become third trustee, a post then vacant.

Lawyers generally believe the existing injunction wouldn't apply in a strike over terms of a new coal contract. Tre present contract expires June 30.

Van Horn Promises Statement

The new pension fund director, Miss Roche, has been associated as a technical assistant and consultant to Lewis since last December. She is a one-time assistant secretary of the treasury and is president of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company, Denver.

Snarled Defense Program Carried Back To Truman

Military Leaders Mum After Meeting

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Military leaders took the badly snarled defense program back to President Truman today to see if he could untie a few knots for them.

The President asked for universal military training, a temporary draft and expansion of the armed forces six weeks ago. He asked for speed because of the troubled world situation.

But confusion among the armed forces leaders over how large the Air Force should be, and disagreement between the Senate and House Armed Services Committees about draft-UMT legislation, have delayed action.

Today Secretary of Defense Forrestal, Secretary of the Army Royall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff, called on the President. They had nothing to say to reporters afterwards.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he did not think there was any significance to the fact that Air Force Secretary Symington was not included in the meeting.

One of the major problems has been caused by Symington's insistance that the nation needs a 70-group Air Force for safety. Forrestal first recommended 55 groups, later compromised on 66. He said a larger force would unbalance the armed services.

Military Lend-Lease Considered

Secretary of State Marshall told a news conference today that is one of the means the United States government is thinking about to strengthen the countries of the west.

3 Perish In Army Plane Crash Near Prince Frederick

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., April 28 (AP) — Three crew members were killed today when their two-engine light training plane crashed in a wooded section here, the Army announced.

Authorities at the Army's Bolling air base in Washington said the craft was a C-45 on a routine training mission. They said it was en route to Bolling from Mitchel Field, N. Y.

Identification of the victims was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Stassen Says Pa. Win Significant

PHILADELPHIA, April 28—(AP)—Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen rode a two-to-one Philadelphia lead to an approximate 5,000-vote victory today in industrial Pennsylvania's Republican preferential primary.

The former Minnesota Governor, fresh from delegate successes in agricultural Wisconsin and Nebraska, said at Trenton, N. J., the Pennsylvania result "may turn out to be a key event in the nomination."

The support which I have been receiving in the rural areas as evidenced by the Nebraska returns, now seems to be developing in the industrial areas," he told reporters.

But at Albany, N. Y., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Stassen's only close competitor in the exclusively write-in balloting said the "spontaneous" vote he received was "particularly gratifying."

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich) was sixth behind Stassen, Dewey, Sen. Edward Martin, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Robert A. Taft. He was ahead of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Henry Wallace.

In the State's two great metropolitan centers of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Stassen's lead was 10,969. For the state as a whole, he was ahead by 4,863, with Dewey leading outside the two big cities by 6,106.

Democratic voters in 6,985 precincts cast 242,264 votes for President Truman. His name was the only one on the ballot. Eisenhower got 5,647 Democratic write-in votes and Wallace 3,614.

Margaret Sullavan Wins Divorce From Producer

LOS ANGELES, April 28 (AP) — Margaret Sullavan, film and stage actress, testified today in obtaining a divorce from Stage Producer Leland Hayward that he said he found their marriage "very irksome."

Miss Sullavan testified that Hayward, on the day he left their home, said:

"I'm not meant for marriage. I'm not meant for home life."

Under terms of a property settlement which the court approved, Miss Sullavan will have custody of their three children, Brooke, 10, Bridget, nine, and William, seven.

Accord Would Spare Old City From Fighting

New Section Not Covered By Pact

LAKES SUCCESS, April 28 (AP)—Jewish and Arab representatives agreed here late today that the walled holy city of Jerusalem should be spared from the fighting in Palestine.

No provision was made for the larger new section of Jerusalem.

The Jewish Agency and Arab Higher Committee representatives recommended to their battling peoples in the Holy Land that a truce should prevail to cover this small, ancient area of shrines held sacred by Christian, Moslem, Jewish and other religions.

Cease-fire orders for the sacred citadel would take effect at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile, other details of the truce will be worked out here in the United Nations Trusteeship Council.

Hopes for a truce covering all of Jerusalem seemed doomed when Jamal Husseini, vice-chairman of the Arab Higher Committee, told the council that the Arabs could accept such a plan only if it covered all of Palestine. Weeks of efforts to reach such a solution have been fruitless.

Terms Of Truce

The agreement reached by the Arabs and Jews through the council provides:

1. All military operations and acts of violence shall cease immediately within the walled city.

2. Cease-fire orders within the area will take effect at the earliest possible moment.

3. Keeping of the truce shall be observed by an impartial commission.

4. Specific terms of the truce will be elaborated by the council in consultation with the Arabs and Jews.

Moshe Shertok, head of the Jewish Agency's Political Department, said he was dispatching the text of the agreement to the agency's executive in Palestine immediately. The council will meet tomorrow (10 a. m. EST) in expectation of hearing the answers from the Jews and Arabs.

Many Shrines In Area

Among the ancient buildings within the old city's circumference of approximately one mile are the Mohammedan Mosque of Omar and the Christian Church of the Holy Sepulchre. It contains also the Via Dolorsa—the Way of the Cross—traveled by Christ on His way to Calvary. The remnant of the Jewish wailing wall is within the old city.

Just outside the wall and the range of the limited truce are such shrines as the Garden of Gethsemane and the Tomb of Absolom. Up a slope from the Garden is the Mount of Olives.

The Trusteeship Council reached agreement on the plan as partial fulfillment of directions from the special United Nations Assembly on Palestine to devise safeguards for Jerusalem.

The council then debated a French suggestion for a force of 1,000 volunteers to protect the holy places. Russia, which ended its boycott of the council only three days ago, immediately demanded an explanation of which countries would provide the volunteers.

Marshall Field III Sells Controlling Interest In PM

NEW YORK, April 28.—(INS)—Multi-Millionaire Marshall Field III tonight called quits to a $6,000,000 experiment in journalism when he announced sale of the controlling interest in the New York newspaper PM.

The buyers were San Francisco Attorney Bartley Crum, crusading member of the now-disbanded Anglo-American Palestine Commission, and Joseph Barnes, foreign editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The sale price was not announced, and Field said he is retaining a minority interest in the newspaper, which he founded in 1940. It is estimated that operation of PM, which began as an adless daily and Sunday newspaper and sold for five cents, has cost Field $6,000,000.

Hilldring Placed In Charge Of U. S. Palestine Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today made former Assistant Secretary John H. Hilldring a special assistant to the Secretary of State in charge of Palestine affairs.

Hilldring, whose home is in Phoenix, Ariz., is at present in San Francisco, Calif.

A retired Army major general he was in charge of the civil affairs division of the War Department from 1943 to 1946.

J. H. Hilldring

He resigned as Assistant Secretary of State for occupied areas (mainly Germany and Japan) in August, last year, for financial reasons.

Today's State Department announcement mentioned that in September, 1947, Hilling was appointed an alternate representative on the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly "in which capacity he was a principal spokesman for this government on matters pertaining to the Palestine question."

Department officials said Hilldring would make his headquarters at the State Department and would be the department's top official on Palestine matters. In this capacity he will take over some of the work of three men—Undersecretary of State Lovett, Loy Henderson, director of Middle Eastern affairs, and Dean Rusk, chief of the department's Division of United Nations Affairs.

Bishop Oxnam Raps Aims Of Some Anti-Communists

BOSTON, April 28. (AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of New York, tonight criticized those who would fight Communism to keep their own "power, property and prestige."

In the Episcopal address to the Methodist General Conference—the church's top legislative body—he said:

"There is an approach somewhat camouflaged by ponderous phrasing and scholastic style that in effect is but the declaration of a holy war on Communism."

He did not identify whom he meant.

"The real purpose that lies behind the war," he said, "is to retain the power, the property and the prestige possessed by those who advocate it."

Bishop Oxnam's 24,000-word speech was prepared under supervision of the Council of Bishops who elected him to the task more than a year ago.

The address voiced Methodism's stand on spiritual, national and international issues.

"We reject Communism," Bishop Oxnam said, "but we know that the only way to defeat it permanently is to use the freedom of our own democracy to establish economic justice and racial brotherhood."

He opposed dropping atomic bombs on Russia, and asked:

"How many hundreds of such bombs would have to be dropped on a nation that occupies one-sixth of the land area of the globe?"

"As the founder of the new party I am amazed to hear Phil Murray use the same tactic in opposing our party that was used so long ago and unsuccessfully against the CIO.

"Phil knows his statement is nonsense.

"It always makes me sad to see a man who has performed great progressive services bow to hysteria, but I think the issues will become a lot clearer to Phil as he fights for the wage increases his steel workers need.

"Phil should know that the issue is not Communism, but the grip of monopolists on our foreign and domestic policies.

"I hope Phil will find some positive program to offer and it might be a good idea for him to announce the name of the candidate for whom he is working and the candidate's stand on Taft-Hartley, segregation, the wage freeze proposals, and the draft."

Bill To Remove Federal Levies Sent To Senate

Count Is 260-106; Party Lines Split

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The House today passed a bill to repeal all federal margarine taxes—after squabbling for three hours over what shape a package of oleo should take. The vote was 260 to 106.

The bill, which would repeal laws that have been on the books for 62 years, now goes to the Senate.

But even if the Senate and President Truman approve the bill, many a housewife still won't be able to buy her margarine already colored.

It's against the law to sell colored oleo in these states:

Some other states impose special licenses or taxes on oleo.

The federal taxes which the bill passed today would appeal are:

Ten cents a pound on colored oleo; one-fourth cent a pound on uncolored; $600 a year tax on manufacturers; $480 on wholesalers of colored oleo; $200 on wholesalers of the uncolored product; $48 on retailers of colored oleo; $6 on retailers of uncolored.

Amendments Defeated

Amendment after amendment was brought up today by congressmen from dairy states. But each time they were beaten.

This cleared the way for the vote on the repeal measure itself.

The fuss over this bill split party lines every which way.

Generally speaking, those from dairy states opposed the bill. They said it would wreck the dairy industry.

Those from the South (a lot of cotton seed oil goes into oleo) and those from the cities (a lot of housewives have complained they don't like to color oleo) wanted the tax taken off. They said it is unfair to the consumer.

Rep. Gross (R-Pa), an opponent of repeal of the oleo taxes, brought in the politics. He pointed out that Harold Stassen, who has said he doesn't favor the repeal of oleo taxes, got a large vote yesterday in Pennsylvania.

"You Republican suckers," he shouted at his fellow Republicans favoring the bill. "This thing was too hot for the New Deal to handle. But look at you."

Democrat Assails Democrats

To even things up, a Democrat fighting repeal jumped on the Democrats battling for oleo. He said he didn't understand their willingness to handle a "hot potato" now when they didn't do anything about it during the 16 years the Democrats controlled Congress.

Rep. Chelf (D-Ky) said he thought taxes, including the $6,000,000 annual margarine tax, should not be reduced at a time when a heap of money is needed for the armed forces.

"I am more concerned," he said, "with the protection of our borderlines than I am in the protrusion of our waistlines."

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY) said that in her opinion oleo should be "virgin white."

"If it's so perfect," she asked, "why does it need another color?"

It costs a lot of money, said Mrs. St. George, to run a dairy farm, because—

"Cows are feminine, and like all things feminine, it takes a lot of hard work if you want to keep them.

"They don't like cheap competition."

C. Of C. Endorses Defense Program

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce tonight endorsed President Truman's military preparedness program in its entirety.

Without dissent the chamber urged Congress to furnish "adequate appropriations" for defense.

Chamber delegates, at their annual session here, underscored the defense resolution by separately declaring in favor of the draft. Again unanimously, they said selected service should be temporary only and ended when the armed forces can be kept at needed strength by volunteers.

These were among 31 policy statements approved with little debate. But the session bogged down in what promised to be a late-at-night argument on public water and power.

A proposed resolution, urging curtailment of government power development, was at issue. It would hit at the Tennessee Valley Authority by disapproving the proposed building of a $52,000,000 steam-generating plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn.

The body also endorsed: Immediate statehood for Hawaii; admission of a "reasonable number" of European displaced persons to this country, and the lowering of state barriers to trade within the United States.

Two Suspects In Reuther Shooting Are Arrested

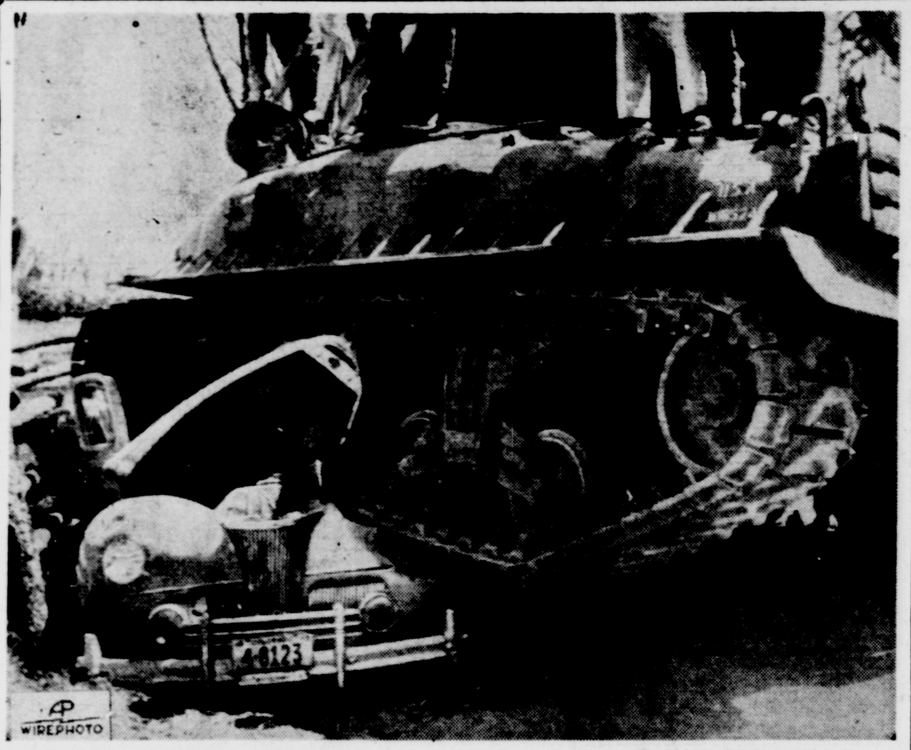
DETROIT, April 28 (INS)—Detroit police arrested two new suspects in connection with the shotgun shooting of UAW-CIO President Walter Reuther tonight in what may prove to be the first real break in the case that has baffled detectives for more than a week.

Inspector Joseph V. Krug, of the special investigation squad, said one of the men had access to a red automobile on the night Reuther was shot and seriously wounded.

State Revenue Booms

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 28 (AP)—Car registrations, sales and income taxes helped boom Maryland revenue to $17,679,117 in March, Comptroller James L. Lacy's monthly fiscal statement showed today.

Receipts were almost $10,000,000 greater than in last March, and upped income for the fiscal year to date to $99,661,499.



TANK RUNS WILD—A 1941 sedan was crushed when a 36-ton General Sherman tank went out of control on a Fort Collins, Colo., street. The tank had been used in an ROTC show at Colorado A. and M. College and was being driven by National Guard officers when it went berserk. No one was in the automobile.

Snarled Defense Program Carried Back To Truman

Military Leaders Mum After Meeting

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Military leaders took the badly snarled defense program back to President Truman today to see if he could untie a few knots for them.

The President asked for universal military training, a temporary draft and expansion of the armed forces six weeks ago. He asked for speed because of the troubled world situation.

But confusion among the armed forces leaders over how large the Air Force should be, and disagreement between the Senate and House Armed Services Committees about draft-UMT legislation, have delayed action.

Today Secretary of Defense Forrestal, Secretary of the Army Royall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff, called on the President. They had nothing to say to reporters afterwards.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he did not think there was any significance to the fact that Air Force Secretary Symington was not included in the meeting.

One of the major problems has been caused by Symington's insistance that the nation needs a 70-group Air Force for safety. Forrestal first recommended 55 groups, later compromised on 66. He said a larger force would unbalance the armed services.

Military Lend-Lease Considered

Secretary of State Marshall told a news conference today that is one of the means the United States government is thinking about to strengthen the countries of the west.

And Chairman Eaton (R-NJ), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that group has asked the State Department to draft what

3 Perish In Army Plane Crash Near Prince Frederick

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., April 28 (AP) — Three crew members were killed today when their two-engine light training plane crashed in a wooded section here, the Army announced.

Authorities at the Army's Bolling air base in Washington said the craft was a C-45 on a routine training mission. They said it was en route to Bolling from Mitchel Field, N. Y.

Identification of the victims was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Stassen Says Pa. Win Significant

PHILADELPHIA, April 28—(AP)—Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen rode a two-to-one Philadelphia lead to an approximate 5,000-vote victory today in industrial Pennsylvania's Republican preferential primary.

The former Minnesota Governor, fresh from delegate successes in agricultural Wisconsin and Nebraska, said at Trenton, N. J., the Pennsylvania result "may turn out to be a key event in the nomination."

The support which I have been receiving in the rural areas as evidenced by the Nebraska returns, now seems to be developing in the industrial areas," he told reporters.

But at Albany, N. Y., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Stassen's only close competitor in the exclusively write-in balloting said the "spontaneous" vote he received was "particularly gratifying."

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich) was sixth behind Stassen, Dewey, Sen. Edward Martin, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Robert A. Taft. He was ahead of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Henry Wallace.

In the State's two great metropolitan centers of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Stassen's lead was 10,969. For the state as a whole, he was ahead by 4,863, with Dewey leading outside the two big cities by 6,106.

Democratic voters in 6,985 precincts cast 242,264 votes for President Truman. His name was the only one on the ballot. Eisenhower got 5,647 Democratic write-in votes and Wallace 3,614.

Leader Of Mine Union Named Administrator

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — John L. Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today began getting things ready to pay elderly coal miners their $100-a-month pensions if the courts don't prevent.

Lewis and Bridges, two of the pension fund trustees, announced:

1. The appointment of an administrator (Lewis).

2. The appointment of a director, Miss Josephine Roche, (associate of Lewis).

3. That the paper work will require "several weeks." No pensions before that.

Lewis and Bridges went this far in the face of a suit by a coal operator, Ezra Van Horn, who is the third pension fund trustee. Van Horn says they can't go ahead without his approval, and he hasn't given it. He wants the court to make Lewis and Bridges personally liable if they start the money flowing under their plan.

Van Horn Backs One Motion

The Lewis-Bridges plan calls for payments to miners of 62 or older with 20 years' service and retired after May 29, 1946.

The United Mine Workers president and the New Hampshire Senator forged ahead with their proposal in a meeting with Van Horn. The operator trustee approved one motion. This calls for investment of $25,000,000 of the miners welfare and retirement fund in government short-term bonds.

Lewis and his 400,000 soft coal miners are now under injunction against striking. This came after the miners were out six weeks' because no pension agreement had been reached with the operators. Bridges accepted an invitation to become third trustee, a post then vacant.

Lawyers generally believe the existing injunction wouldn't apply in a strike over terms of a new coal contract. Tre present contract expires June 30.

Van Horn Promises Statement

The new pension fund director, Miss Roche, has been associated as a technical assistant and consultant to Lewis since last December. She is a one-time assistant secretary of the treasury and is president of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company, Denver.

Accord Would Spare Old City From Fighting

New Section Not Covered By Pact

LAKES SUCCESS, April 28 (AP)—Jewish and Arab representatives agreed here late today that the walled holy city of Jerusalem should be spared from the fighting in Palestine.

No provision was made for the larger new section of Jerusalem.

The Jewish Agency and Arab Higher Committee representatives recommended to their battling peoples in the Holy Land that a truce should prevail to cover this small, ancient area of shrines held sacred by Christian, Moslem, Jewish and other religions.

Cease-fire orders for the sacred citadel would take effect at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile, other details of the truce will be worked out here in the United Nations Trusteeship Council.

Hopes for a truce covering all of Jerusalem seemed doomed when Jamal Husseini, vice-chairman of the Arab Higher Committee, told the council that the Arabs could accept such a plan only if it covered all of Palestine. Weeks of efforts to reach such a solution have been fruitless.

Terms Of Truce

The agreement reached by the Arabs and Jews through the council provides:

1. All military operations and acts of violence shall cease immediately within the walled city.

2. Cease-fire orders within the area will take effect at the earliest possible moment.

3. Keeping of the truce shall be observed by an impartial commission.

4. Specific terms of the truce will be elaborated by the council in consultation with the Arabs and Jews.

Moshe Shertok, head of the Jewish Agency's Political Department, said he was dispatching the text of the agreement to the agency's executive in Palestine immediately. The council will meet tomorrow (10 a. m. EST) in expectation of hearing the answers from the Jews and Arabs.

Many Shrines In Area

Among the ancient buildings within the old city's circumference of approximately one mile are the Mohammedan Mosque of Omar and the Christian Church of the Holy Sepulchre. It contains also the Via Dolorsa—the Way of the Cross—traveled by Christ on His way to Calvary. The remnant of the Jewish wailing wall is within the old city.

Just outside the wall and the range of the limited truce are such shrines as the Garden of Gethsemane and the Tomb of Absolom. Up a slope from the Garden is the Mount of Olives.

The Trusteeship Council reached agreement on the plan as partial fulfillment of directions from the special United Nations Assembly on Palestine to devise safeguards for Jerusalem.

The council then debated a French suggestion for a force of 1,000 volunteers to protect the holy places. Russia, which ended its boycott of the council only three days ago, immediately demanded an explanation of which countries would provide the volunteers.

Marshall Field III Sells Controlling Interest In PM

NEW YORK, April 28.—(INS)—Multi-Millionaire Marshall Field III tonight called quits to a $6,000,000 experiment in journalism when he announced sale of the controlling interest in the New York newspaper PM.

The buyers were San Francisco Attorney Bartley Crum, crusading member of the now-disbanded Anglo-American Palestine Commission, and Joseph Barnes, foreign editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The sale price was not announced, and Field said he is retaining a minority interest in the newspaper, which he founded in 1940. It is estimated that operation of PM, which began as an adless daily and Sunday newspaper and sold for five cents, has cost Field $6,000,000.

Hilldring Placed In Charge Of U. S. Palestine Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today made former Assistant Secretary John H. Hilldring a special assistant to the Secretary of State in charge of Palestine affairs.

Hilldring, whose home is in Phoenix, Ariz., is at present in San Francisco, Calif.

A retired Army major general he was in charge of the civil affairs division of the War Department from 1943 to 1946.

He resigned as Assistant Secretary of State for occupied areas (mainly Germany and Japan) in August, last year, for financial reasons.

J. H. Hilldring

Today's State Department announcement mentioned that in September, 1947, Hilling was appointed an alternate representative on the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly "in which capacity he was a principal spokesman for this government on matters pertaining to the Palestine question."

Department officials said Hilldring would make his headquarters at the State Department and would be the department's top official on Palestine matters. In this capacity he will take over some of the work of three men—Undersecretary of State Lovett, Loy Henderson, director of Middle Eastern affairs, and Dean Rusk, chief of the department's Division of United Nations Affairs.

Margaret Sullavan Wins Divorce From Producer

LOS ANGELES, April 28 (AP) — Margaret Sullavan, film and stage actress, testified today in obtaining a divorce from Stage Producer Leland Hayward that he said he found their marriage "very irksome."

Miss Sullavan testified that Hayward, on the day he left their home, said:

"I'm not meant for marriage. I'm not meant for home life."

Under terms of a property settlement which the court approved, Miss Sullavan will have custody of their three children, Brooke, 10, Bridget, nine, and William, seven.

Bishop Oxnam Raps Aims Of Some Anti-Communists

BOSTON, April 28. (AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of New York, tonight criticized those who would fight Communism to keep their own "power, property and prestige."

In the Episcopal address to the Methodist General Conference—the church's top legislative body—he said:

"There is an approach somewhat camouflaged by ponderous phrasing and scholastic style that in effect is but the declaration of a holy war on Communism."

He did not identify whom he meant.

"The real purpose that lies behind the war," he said, "is to retain the power, the property and the prestige possessed by those who advocate it."

Bishop Oxnam's 24,000-word speech was prepared under supervision of the Council of Bishops who elected him to the task more than a year ago.

The address voiced Methodism's stand on spiritual, national and international issues.

"We reject Communism," Bishop Oxnam said, "but we know that the only way to defeat it permanently is to use the freedom of our own democracy to establish economic justice and racial brotherhood."

He opposed dropping atomic bombs on Russia, and asked:

"How many hundreds of such bombs would have to be dropped on a nation that occupies one-sixth of the land area of the globe?"

Her Boy Friend Goes With Friends She Doesn't Consider Nice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am having trouble with my boy friend. He goes with boys whom I do not consider nice, and with a girl who is not a lady. He respects me, but he goes with this girl. What can I do?

"E"

Dear "E":

Why do you want to have anything to do with a boy who prefers the wrong type of companions? You say he respects you but chooses to go out with a different kind of girl. So isn't it pretty obvious what kind of companionship he really likes?

What I should think you would do, would be to let him to his own way and stick to the friends who have the same ideals and standards that you have.

Living In A Dream World

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 14 and deeply in love with a fellow who is 19. He recently broke off with me and goes with another girl. He tells me he still loves me, but he says he won't go out with me any more because I am too good for him and that the other girl is more his type. Every time I see him talking to her my heart breaks in two. How can I get him back?

"GREATLY PUZZLED"

Dear "Greatly Puzzled":

I think you had better snap out of your dream world and get back to reality. No girl of 14 is "deeply in love" with anybody.

Like all girls your age you have romantic daydreams which you attach to specific individuals, even though these individuals may not have the remotest resemblance to the glamorous men of your dreams.

I think the chief reason this 19-year old chap is going with another girl who is "more his type" is because he realizes you are still just a little girl. I think you will be much happier if you will be sensible enough to leave romance alone till you are older.

County Registration Of Voters Is Disappointing

The number of persons who prepared, through registration, to exercise their right of franchise at the primary in Allegany county on May 3, and at the general election in November, will fall far short of making up for the 4,000 persons who were dropped from the poll books since the last national election. They had been removed because of their failure to vote during the past five years.

In all probability the registration will be less than 35 per cent of that number. Of course, some of those persons have died and some have moved outside the county, but it was to be expected that new voters and those who have never bothered to register might bring the final total to somewhere near what it was. But, it probably reflects the apathy which exists among the electorate in the contests next month.

The lack of interest could be laid to the fact that contests in the primary are limited to the race being made by four Democratic candidates for Congress from the Sixth District, and because of the fact that no outstanding issues have been advanced. Nevertheless the apathy which has marked so many of our elections is there. Whether there will be a greater outpouring of new voters on registration days, to be held in October, remains to be seen. But with the presidential and congressional elections at stake it is a good guess there will be.

We cannot afford to continue the apparent lack of interest, as of now, into the November battle of ballots. We pride ourselves on our adherence to and belief in democracy, and in this regard, we can learn a thing from Italians. Americans think they are doing well when 60 per cent of the voters go to the polls. In the Italian election, a week ago, nearly 90 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. This is by all odds a record for the democratic process.

The news accounts state that the lame, the halt and the blind either went or were taken to the voting places. The aged paralyzed sister of Pope Pius voted from a wheel chair. In Rome a vote was cast by a 103-year-old woman. There is no doubt about the outcome of this election being a true expression of the feelings of the Italian people.

Contrast this with the sorry showing at so many American elections. For weeks the necessity of voting is dinned into the heads of the people. The cry, "Get out the vote" resounds from every party worker. Yet, time and again, less than half the voters take the trouble to mark a ballot.

This is a sorry commentary. Of course, it can be argued that the issues involved in the Italian election were so momentous that a large vote would be expected. But this country has been faced with momentous issues, too, and the voters still remained apathetic.

There is no excuse. Taking democracy for granted is a dangerous attitude. If the Italians had done so on April 18, democracy would today be dead in Italy.

John L. Lewis' experience proves that to those who keep on asking shall be given.

Time For Showdown Over Dr. Condon's Case

The American system of government calls for three equal and independent branches, with each serving as a check on the other two. Today, over the Condon case, one of those branches is clearly out of line. Opinions may differ as to whether the President or Congress is at fault. But since they are clashing, in a remarkable disagreement which may set precedents, it is clear that one must be wrong.

It started when a House subcommittee on un-American activities insinuated that Dr. Condon, head of the Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce, was either disloyal or dangerously indiscreet.

"One of the weakest links in our atomic security," the committee called him.

Dr. Condon denied everything. The Department of Commerce said that a previous investigation had cleared him of all charges of disloyalty. The committee demanded part of the file of the investigation. The department refused. Taxpayers who pay Condon's salary have never been informed why it was refused.

Then President Truman issued an order instructing all departments not to honor congressional subpoenas for confidential files. The House retaliated by passing, 300 to 29, a resolution directing the Secretary of Commerce to turn over part of the file. Truman's retort was something like: "Try and get it!"

Chairman Thomas of the full committee and Speaker Martin of the House have both indicated that legislation may be introduced to force a showdown.

The sooner it comes the better. A matter as serious as this cannot be left dangling in the air simply because Truman is determined to veto every action of Congress.

The Fading Nickel

New York, which has 240 miles of subways and 500 miles of bus routes, is virtually the last city to surrender the nickel fare. It has been one of the sacred cows of Gotham.

Despite the 10,000,000 passengers carried each day, the city-operated system was going into the red tens of millions of dollars annually. With a municipal budget of more than a billion dollars and property taxes out of sight, it has at last been decided to increase the fare.

New York is a union-controlled city and, to accomplish it, officials had to curry the consent of a part of labor. The rightwing unions finally decided to accept a higher fare in return for an increase in wages. But the leftwing outfits clung to their wearisome old refrain that wages could be boosted sharply even if the fare remained a nickel.

Soon a New Yorker will be unable to boast that he can ride 240 miles on a subway for a jitney. That was undoubtedly the world's greatest five cents' worth. That coin is now all but valueless in purchasing an individual item.

About all that can be purchased with it is a pack of chewing gum, a candy bar (reduced in size) or a tune, so-called, on a juke box, not overlooking the daily newspaper, which is the greatest bargain in the world today.

Cleveland's Cancer

It is known that two of our presidents had cancer—Grant and Cleveland .There is a possibility that other chief executives were also victims but we shall probably remain in the dark because of the hush-hush tendency that accompanies the death of a president. Whether Cleveland died of malignancy is uncertain but he did have cancer while he was in office and the story of its successful removal is one of the most spectacular in medical history.

Cleveland had just been re-elected. The country was in a turmoil and the panic of June 27, 1893 induced him to call a special session of Congress for August 7. Little did his opponents realize that 9 days before, he had consulted Dr. O'Reilly, who had discovered a cancer on the left side of the hard plate which spread to the upper jaw. Consultants were called and surgery was deemed necessary.

It was decided to use the yacht "Oneida" and, in order to maintain absolute secrecy, his physicians boarded ship, as it lay in New York harbor, at different times of the day and night. These men included Doctors Janeway, a diagnostician; Hasbrouck, a dentist; Bryant, a surgeon; and O'Reilly, the physician who was to give the anesthetic. Bryant was elected chief surgeon, to be assisted by Drs. Keen and Erdmann. The latter was a young man at the time and is the only living member of the group. That night, the president and a few friends boarded the yacht and, on the morning of July 1, the operation was performed while proceeding at half-speed up the East river.

To avoid an external scar, incisions were made in the roof of the mouth and the entire left upper jaw was removed, from the first bicuspids to the last molar. The procedure lasted approximately an hour. On the second day, the distinguished patient was out of bed and, on the evening of July 5, he landed at Gray Gables.

But Dr. Bryant was not satisfied. He believed that a remnant of the growth remained. On July 17, a second operation was done under the same precautions as previously. The surgeon showed excellent judgment because laboratory study showed that the tumor was a sarcoma, one of our most malignant types.

A New York dentist, Gibson, fitted the president with an artificial jaw made of vulcanized rubber. On August 5, Cleveland returned to Washington and directed the strategy that repealed the Sherman law. If knowledge of the circumstances had leaked out, it might have had severe national and political repercussions.

Cleveland died 15 years later but the death certificate is not too clear. According to Seelig, who recently resurrected this story, intestinal obstruction was the most likely cause. This abnormality is frequently due to cancer of a type entirely different from that which existed previously.

PANCREAS DISORDER

Inflammation of the pancreas is uncommon but when it occurs, severe abdominal pain, associated with shock, will be present. There is a chronic form, in which there is a wide variety of symptoms.

SKIN HEMORRHAGE

Mrs. E. writes: I have the habit of stretching my body when I go to bed at night and wake up in the morning. I was told recently that this will lead to hardening of the arteries. Please advise.

Reply

All of us develop hardening of the arteries if we live long enough —whether we stretch or not. Moreover, stretching is one of the joys of fatigue.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, count me . . . if you're counting everybody else.

Britain's Lady Astor has come out with a novel idea. She thinks wealthy Americans should be entitled to buy titles of nobility for themselves.

Well, that's one way to get the colonies back.

It shouldn't be too hard to get a title. All you'd have to prove is that your cellar is the local branch of the Bank of America.

If just having money is the prerequisite, even counterfeiters could get in on it. Of course, they'd have phony titles.

And a guy who's in the chips more than anybody else would be doubly honored. For him they'd even throw in a subtitle.

Of course, with inflation on, things would look a little funny. You'd see an ad in the paper "Baron would like three-room castle already furnished." Or "Young knight desires to meet beautiful duchess. Object . . . to build a corporation."

I wonder if you would be able to marry into nobility in this setup. If a young lady had a lot of money, could she marry a guy and turn her Prince Charming into a charming prince?

I may be old-fashioned but I like things the way they are. It would be so embarrassing to stop a guy on the street, say, "Got a match, Your Grace?" and find out he was only a doorman.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 28—It looks as if fate was finally catching up with the real-estate lobby. One of its most active spokesmen has been Congressman Charles Fletcher, San Diego Republican, who, though a frashman, was strategically placed on the House Banking and Currency Committee by the lobby's master wire-puller, Morton Bodfish.

Bodfish has now been indicted by the Justice Department, and Fletcher is now under investigation by the Home Loan Bank for some interesting operations in San Diego.

The board has sent its ace investigator, A. C. Newell, to California to probe the shaky finances of the Federal Savings and Loan Association which Fletcher heads. Thanks to the Congressman and his father, the association has got in up to its neck in a real-estate deal which may lose a lot of other people's money.

Fletcher founded the Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Diego and is still its president. Furthermore he draws a salary of $10,000, even while he is supposed to be devoting his full time to Congress.

Of course, as a Congressman, Fletcher introduced the bill to abolish rent control, has voted consistently against housing reforms and is a member of the joint committee on housing where he has done his best to sabotage the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. So, all in all, he hasn't done so badly by the housing lobby.

"Fletcher Park"

But in San Diego, Fletcher hasn't done so well by the people who invested in his Federal Savings and Loan Association. First, Fletcher's father sold a tract of land to a San Diego real-estate operator named Larry H. Imig, for around $30,000. Then young Fletcher turned around and loaned Imig the money which he, Imig, paid Fletcher's father for the land.

Following this, Imig erected a housing development which he named "Fletcher Park" in honor of the two gentlemen who sold him the land and loaned him other people's money to pay for it. Then Imig built another development which he named for himself "Imig Park," plus a swank hotel with swimming pool and night club which he named "Imig Park Manor."

Meanwhile, Imig kept borrowing money from Fletcher's Federal Savings and Loan Association, until his debt now runs to around $1,250,000 —or about one-half the total assets of the association.

If this were Fletcher's money, it would be one thing. But what worries the Home Loan Bank board in Washington is that the U. S. Government has insured the San Diego Federal Savings and Loan Association and Uncle Sam may have to bail Fletcher out. That's why investigator Newell was sent to California.

Congressman Fletcher started in the Savings and Loan Business back in 1934 on only $9,500. He hit it just at the right time, shortly before the war boom. By the peak of the boom his association's total capital was swollen to nearly $3,000,000 — of which about half is tied up with one real-estate speculator.

Meanwhile, Congressman Fletcher blithely continues to vote against public housing. Obviously, if he can lend money to private speculators with a Government guarantee to bail him out, he isn't terribly interested in the low-cost public housing provided for in the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Bill.

Backstage In Italy

Now that the Italian elections are over, some of the backstage developments can be told.

One factor which influenced Italian votes was the State Department's offer to return Trieste to Italy—an offer which the Russians eventually turned down.

What wasn't known was that Tito had been planning to make exactly the same offer himself—on behalf of Russia. But U. S. intelligence services picked up this fact, and we beat Tito to it. This was some of the fastest footwork the State Department has put across in some ime.

Another factor was Ambassador Dunn's insistence that the American fleet get out of Italian waters. Some of the military men around the White House didn't like this advice, thought the fleet should remain. But Dunn argued its presence gave political ammunition to the Communists. He was right. The fleet was withdrawn, and the Comies had to pipe down.

One thing which nearly upset the applecart was the amendment by Congressman O'Konski of Wisconsin making Marshall Plan money available to Spain. Until this was reversed in the Senate, it had a bad backfire in Italy.

Note 1—When this writer was in Italy last winter, he traveled with Ambassador Dunn and Vice Premier Pacciardi to Naples to welcome the Friend Ship. Perhaps these were the two most incongruous people in Italy to be thrown together; for, during the Spanish Civil War Dunn was lined up on the side of Franco, while Col. Pacciardi commanded the Italian anti-Fascist troops in Spain fighting against Franco. Both, however, have now been working together in the belief that extremists of either the right or left are enemies of Italian democracy.

Note 2—President Truman has in mind a promotion for Ambassador Dunn. While he deserves one, his services are too important in Italy.

Merry-Go-Round

Some fast footwork is going on inside the State Department regarding the Marshall Plan. The plan has quietly eliminated $600,000,000 worth of machinery to Europe. Instead, $600,000,000 of food and grains have been added. What Europe needs most is machinery to build up its own industry. . . Congratulations to Colonial Airlines for completing 18 years of operation without a single fatal accident. It has flown a total of 192 million miles. . .New general counsel of the CIO is able Arthur Goldberg. . . The White House is unhappy over the public-relations setup of the Democratic National Committee, may clean out most of party headquarters. . .However, it's hard to do a good public-relations job when there's not too much to publicize.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Getting Down To Business

WASHINGTON.

THE numerous and as yet ill-founded rumors of such dramatic events as a Washington meeting between Messrs. Marshall, Bevin and Bidault are froth on the surface of a vitally important tide. The crucial stage has been reached, in fact, in the effort to work out an enduring political and strategic relationship between Europe and this hemisphere.

As usual, the facts are considerably less stirring than the rumors they generate. Two main efforts are now going on. The first effort is to find out what the western Europeans can do to help themselves. The second effort is to find out what Congress will do to help the western Europeans.

The first problem is being tackled in London by the Permanent Military Committee of the Western European Union, comprising representatives of the staffs of Britain, France and Benelux countries. From earlier talks, it is already clear that their planning will be aimed at making it eventually possible to hold the line of the Rhine against Soviet attack. But the staffs must now decide which country is to contribute how many divisions; how the equipment is to be standardized; how command is to be unified, and what minimum of aid they will need from the United States.

The second problem, of what Congress can be induced to do at this time, has been and is being urgently tackled in talks between representatives of the Administration and the Congressional leaders. The chief men involved are Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Senator Vandenberg and Under Secretary Lovett constitute one of the most collaborative teams the capital has seen for a long time. It is symtomatic of the way they think alike that they had both reached the same conclusion before their meeting. Independently and without consultation, each had formed the opinion that what they call the "E.R.P. pattern" ought to be followed. The Europeans have therefore been asked to be pretty precise about their own plans for helping themselves, before starting any discussion of American help in this new political-strategic sphere. What is done here is thus partly dependent on the outcome in London.

There are several issues which could cause really violent disagreement in London. For example, Britain and the Benelux countries have already intimated that France should provide the manpower for more than two-thirds of the 45 to 50 divisions thought necessary to hold the Rhine line. It is hard to see how any but French divisions could be in position on the Rhine in time to repel an attack. The British consequently argue that their contribution should be chiefly in the form of air and naval power. But several factors, such as the corporate interests of the French air force and navy, and French memories of limited R.A.F. participation in the Battle of France, are going to make the French fight very hard against acceptance of the British-Benelux concept.

The perils ahead in London are fairly obvious. The desire of the western Europeans for American military guaranties is so strong, however, that the permanent military committee of the Western Union is expected to reach rather early agreement, at least in principle. If this government is not utterly hollow, the time for American action will then have come.

One point is already clear about our action. The Western Europeans have said frankly that in view of the political situation in this country, they would place no reliance on any mere Presidential or Executive declaration. The State Department sympathizes with this position. The President will therefore probably announce the American guaranty of Europe against aggression. But what the President says will be confirmed, at a minimum, by a bi-partisan resolution in the Senate.

This is the least that can be done if the western Europeans are not to conclude that American foreign policy is empty and meaningless. The other alternative being discussed is more elaborate. Under this alternative, the President would probably still issue a declaration committing this country to go to war if western Europe is attacked. The Senate, and perhaps the Congress as a whole, would still be asked to pass a confirming resolution. But it would also be announced, concurrently, that the United States government wished ultimately to negotiate a formal treaty with Europe. The spadework on such a treaty would then be begun at once; and the treaty would be offered to the next session of Congress.

Neither an early meeting between Marshall, Bevin and Bidault, nod immediate launching of lend-lease for Europe, is now likely. A Bevin-Bidault-Marshall meeting can hardly take the place until decisions have been taken which will assure the meeting's success. Military lend-lease cannot be launched until military plans are formulated and agreed upon. But the main thing is that the grand design—the preliminary organization of the non-Soviet world—is already in hand.

Congress Will Decide What Is To Be Spent For Defense

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 28—Congress will decide what will be spent for armament—not the President or the Secretary of Defense or any unified agency.

This means that each of the armed services will always go to the court of last resort—Congress—to persuade that body to spend what each service says is needed for security.

Nearly two years ago, when the "unification" controversy was at fever heat, W. Stuart Symington, who was then assistant secretary for air in the War Department, urged that there be a single department and a single budget and that the decisions as to what each service should have should be made by the single department.

This correspondent took issue then with that concept and pointed out how dangerous it would be to have the director of the budget or a single officer in the Executive Department make such a decision. Fortunately for Mr. Symington, his view has not prevailed and he is the first under "unification" to take advantage of the historic practice of making a case to Congress for the armed service he represents.

Precedent Very Important

The precedent is very important. It means that when the Army or the Navy or the Air Force differs hereafter with the secretary of defense, the argument will be carried to Congress and that body will decide. Mr. Symington in his speech on June 17, 1946, before the economic club of Detroit, said:

"If there is to be any limitation on the amount the American taxpayer can afford to put into national security, however, naturally that amount available must be divided up between the Army, Navy, and the Air Force. If one of the services gets more than its share, obviously another will get less."

Mr. Symington fortunately has dropped the idea. Today he contends that the Navy or the Army are entitled to whatever they can get from Congress and there is no disposition on his part to pare down what the other services get. This is a logical and proper position. It leaves him free to urge the spending of more money for the Air Force no matter what the other services get. That's what has always happened in Congress. Each service makes its own case and Congress decides as to what total should be spent.

There may come a time when the President and the secretary of defense will not give the Navy, for example, the money it believes necessary for national security. It will be proper then for the Navy to take its case to Congress and try to get more appropriations than the executive branch of the government will have recommended.

It is important that Congress always get all availiable information. Heretofore the Budget Bureau has pared down military requests and there has been a tendency to gag the military officers. To the credit of Secretary of Defense Forrestal, it must be noted that he has not endeavored to gag the secretary of air or anybody else who wants to urge military reaons for increasing the appropriations.

Truman's Position Embarrassing

In all the present discussion, of course, President Truman is in an embarrassing position because, theoretically, at least, he is commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy—There is no mention of the Air Force in the Constitution. He is also the head of the cabinet, and he could tell the Secretary of Air that he is going beyond the administration's recommendations.

But Mr. Truman isn't doing this. He is standing behind the Secretary of Defense, who takes the position that all the facts should be laid before Congress. If that body wants to spend more billions for defense and the country approves of deficit financing and higher taxes, the responsibility is on Congress and not on the Executive who has asked for a limited budget. If, on the other hand, war breaks out soon, the responsibility for lack of preparedness will be on the President. So, anyone who can guess whether or not we are a few months or a few years away from war can tell who is right in the present controversy over military funds.

Rearmament

NOTHING better could have happened to this country at this time than the debate between Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and Secretary for Air W. Stuart Symington over the nature of our rearmament and its cost. Of course, the layman might ask the question, while listening to the debate, how it happened that this country, which gathered together and equipped the largest army, navy and air force in all the world, let it go down as low as the debaters say it has gone?

This is an astonishing performance, particularly as it is clear from the Byrnes, Hull and Stimson memoirs that it was evident at Yalta that the Russians were planning to succeed to the Nazi conquests in Europe. Certainly, by Potsdam there could be no doubt about their intentions.

Why then were the Army, Navy and Air Force practically disbanded; why were stores of equipment abandoned, destroyed or sold at a few cents on the dollar?

Forrestal insists upon a balanced defense within the margins of the economic and political needs of the country. He insists that while the air force is important and while a war can be lost for the wants of an adequate one, an army and navy are still needed. For instance, the possession by Soviet Russia of a large submarine fleet, consisting of the latest type German submarines against which we have not yet perfected a defense, is serious. Without a navy, the lanes of traffic across the seas could be closed. The Army still is needed for occupation. The atomic bomb will not win a war, although it may destroy cities.

Even domestically, an army is needed to put down Fifth Column forces which already exist in the United States, in what dimensions nobody knows positively.

All this is admitted, but the point Secretary Symington makes is that Russia is outproducing us 12 to 1 in airplanes. Frankly ,that gave me the shivers when I first heard it and even the second time. Then I began to wonder how much of the Russian fleet was of their manufacture and how much we gave them by Lend-Lease. We gave them radar as a gift. What else did we give them as a gift?

Then I asked myself another question: For nearly 300 years, since Peter the Great tried to introduce manufactures in Russia, they produced nearly nothing. During all of Stalin's Five-Year Plans, they produced very little compared with the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Japan. The Germans almost had them until the United States intervened in the war, and then we gave them, through Lend-Lease, $11,000,000,000 of supplies. Nevertheless, we reached the Berlin area before they did, although we had a longer way to go. The fact that our troops were called back to the Elbe to wait until the Russians arrived in Berlin, in no measure vitiates the fact that the United States by land and air activity knocked the German out in his capital.

Suddenly, Russia becomes a primary manufacturing country, capable of outproducing the United States in the manufacture of airplanes by 12 to 1. I would like to know more about that. Certainly, Germany could not and did not outproduce this country, and Germany was more advanced in production than any country except the United States.

Even if nothing had been destroyed in Germany during the war; even if the entire German plant remained intact; even if none of it was in Western Germany but all in the Russian areas of Germany, their plant was never equal to ours. Why then did we permit the Russians to beat us in an armament race, if Russia has beaten us?

I don't know, but it seems that James Forrestal is viewing the whole question of rearmament with greater balance, with a more rounded picture of the United States. It is easier to follow him and accept his judgment, but we need figures on the actual Russian capacity to produce. In those figures lie our peril and our safety—and as Secretary of Defense Forrestal seems to be reasonable in his outlook, why not take the American people into his confidence?

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

My only stand in politics is based on the possibility of a third world war. The Democrats have had the first two and the Republicans are entitled to a time at the bat.

But that interesting event seems as remote as a giraffe's upper lip. Somebody must have buzzed Stalin that we now have radar that looks you up in the telephone book.

Those fellows down at Aberdeen say we can build a flying missle that can reach any spot in the world. And if Stalin has an ear to the ground he should hear the Rhubarb growing.

You know it is good to let a family secret out every so often just to keep the neighbors contented.

Now the government says all lobby-gowsters must register with the committee under-the-counter. Every high pressure cooker will have a dinner bell on the pay-off window.

It was different in the old days when the legislation directors walked tippy-toed through the tulips and never went back for their hats.

They threw no shadows on glass doors, answered no telephones and kept no more books than an Indian selling a moose on the hoof.

From now on out the lobbyist has a number and a rating. They may call t progress but I claim they have taken the bloom off the rose, the fuzz off the peach and the romance out of the fix. I'll play these.

County Registration Of Voters Is Disappointing

The number of persons who prepared, through registration, to exercise their right of franchise at the primary in Allegany county on May 3, and at the general election in November, will fall far short of making up for the 4,000 persons who were dropped from the poll books since the last national election. They had been removed because of their failure to vote during the past five years.

In all probability the registration will be less than 35 per cent of that number. Of course, some of those persons have died and some have moved outside the county, but it was to be expected that new voters and those who have never bothered to register might bring the final total to somewhere near what it was. But, it probably reflects the apathy which exists among the electorate in the contests next month.

The lack of interest could be laid to the fact that contests in the primary are limited to the race being made by four Democratic candidates for Congress from the Sixth District, and because of the fact that no outstanding issues have been advanced. Nevertheless the apathy which has marked so many of our elections is there. Whether there will be a greater outpouring of new voters on registration days, to be held in October, remains to be seen. But with the presidential and congressional elections at stake it is a good guess there will be.

We cannot afford to continue the apparent lack of interest, as of now, into the November battle of ballots. We pride ourselves on our adherence to and belief in democracy, and in this regard, we can learn a thing from Italians. Americans think they are doing well when 60 per cent of the voters go to the polls. In the Italian election, a week ago, nearly 90 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots. This is by all odds a record for the democratic process.

The news accounts state that the lame, the halt and the blind either went or were taken to the voting places. The aged paralyzed sister of Pope Pius voted from a wheel chair. In Rome a vote was cast by a 103-year-old woman. There is no doubt about the outcome of this election being a true expression of the feelings of the Italian people.

Contrast this with the sorry showing at so many American elections. For weeks the necessity of voting is dinned into the heads of the people. The cry, "Get out the vote" resounds from every party worker. Yet, time and again, less than half the voters take the trouble to mark a ballot.

This is a sorry commentary. Of course, it can be argued that the issues involved in the Italian election were so momentous that a large vote would be expected. But this country has been faced with momentous issues, too, and the voters still remained apathetic.

There is no excuse. Taking democracy for granted is a dangerous attitude. If the Italians had done so on April 18, democracy would today be dead in Italy.

John L. Lewis' experience proves that to those who keep on asking shall be given.

Time For Showdown Over Dr. Condon's Case

The American system of government calls for three equal and independent branches, with each serving as a check on the other two. Today, over the Condon case, one of those branches is clearly out of line. Opinions may differ as to whether the President or Congress is at fault. But since they are clashing, in a remarkable disagreement which may set precedents, it is clear that one must be wrong.

It started when a House subcommittee on un-American activities insinuated that Dr. Condon, head of the Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce, was either disloyal or dangerously indiscreet.

"One of the weakest links in our atomic security," the committee called him.

Dr. Condon denied everything. The Department of Commerce said that a previous investigation had cleared him of all charges of disloyalty. The committee demanded part of the file of the investigation. The department refused. Taxpayers who pay Condon's salary have never been informed why it was refused.

Then President Truman issued an order instructing all departments not to honor congressional subpoenas for confidential files. The House retaliated by passing, 300 to 29, a resolution directing the Secretary of Commerce to turn over part of the file. Truman's retort was something like: "Try and get it!"

Chairman Thomas of the full committee and Speaker Martin of the House have both indicated that legislation may be introduced to force a showdown.

The sooner it comes the better. A matter as serious as this cannot be left dangling in the air simply because Truman is determined to veto every action of Congress.

The Fading Nickel

New York, which has 240 miles of subways and 500 miles of bus routes, is virtually the last city to surrender the nickel fare. It has been one of the sacred cows of Gotham.

Despite the 10,000,000 passengers carried each day, the city-operated system was going into the red tens of millions of dollars annually. With a municipal budget of more than a billion dollars and property taxes out of sight, it has at last been decided to increase the fare.

New York is a union-controlled city and, to accomplish it, officials had to curry the consent of a part of labor. The rightwing unions finally decided to accept a higher fare in return for an increase in wages. But the leftwing outfits clung to their wearisome old refrain that wages could be boosted sharply even if the fare remained a nickel.

Soon a New Yorker will be unable to boast that he can ride 240 miles on a subway for a jitney. That was undoubtedly the world's greatest five cents' worth. That coin is now all but valueless in purchasing an individual item.

About all that can be purchased with it is a pack of chewing gum, a candy bar (reduced in size) or a tune, so-called, on a juke box, not overlooking the daily newspaper, which is the greatest bargain in the world today.

Cleveland's Cancer

It is known that two of our presidents had cancer—Grant and Cleveland .There is a possibility that other chief executives were also victims but we shall probably remain in the dark because of the hush-hush tendency that accompanies the death of a president. Whether Cleveland died of malignancy is uncertain but he did have cancer while he was in office and the story of its successful removal is one of the most spectacular in medical history.

Cleveland had just been re-elected. The country was in a turmoil and the panic of June 27, 1893 induced him to call a special session of Congress for August 7. Little did his opponents realize that 9 days before, he had consulted Dr. O'Reilly, who had discovered a cancer on the left side of the hard plate which spread to the upper jaw. Consultants were called and surgery was deemed necessary.

It was decided to use the yacht "Oneida" and, in order to maintain absolute secrecy, his physicians boarded ship, as it lay in New York harbor, at different times of the day and night. These men included Doctors Janeway, a diagnostician; Hasbrouck, a dentist; Bryant, a surgeon; and O'Reilly, the physician who was to give the anesthetic. Bryant was elected chief surgeon, to be assisted by Drs. Keen and Erdmann. The latter was a young man at the time and is the only living member of the group. That night, the president and a few friends boarded the yacht and, on the morning of July 1, the operation was performed while proceeding at half-speed up the East river.

To avoid an external scar, incisions were made in the roof of the mouth and the entire left upper jaw was removed, from the first bicuspids to the last molar. The procedure lasted approximately an hour. On the second day, the distinguished patient was out of bed and, on the evening of July 5, he landed at Gray Gables.

But Dr. Bryant was not satisfied. He believed that a remnant of the growth remained. On July 17, a second operation was done under the same precautions as previously. The surgeon showed excellent judgment because laboratory study showed that the tumor was a sarcoma, one of our most malignant types.

A New York dentist, Gibson, fitted the president with an artificial jaw made of vulcanized rubber. On August 5, Cleveland returned to Washington and directed the strategy that repealed the Sherman law. If knowledge of the circumstances had leaked out, it might have had severe national and political repercussions.

Cleveland died 15 years later but the death certificate is not too clear. According to Seelig, who recently resurrected this story, intestinal obstruction was the most likely cause. This abnormality is frequently due to cancer of a type entirely different from that which existed previously.

PANCREAS DISORDER

Inflammation of the pancreas is uncommon but when it occurs, severe abdominal pain, associated with shock, will be present. There is a chronic form, in which there is a wide variety of symptoms.

SKIN HEMORRHAGE

Mrs. E. writes: I have the habit of stretching my body when I go to bed at night and wake up in the morning. I was told recently that this will lead to hardening of the arteries. Please advise.

Reply

All of us develop hardening of the arteries if we live long enough—whether we stretch or not. Moreover, stretching is one of the joys of fatigue.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, count me . . . if you're counting everybody else.

Britain's Lady Astor has come out with a novel idea. She thinks wealthy Americans should be entitled to buy titles of nobility for themselves.

Well, that's one way to get the colonies back.

It shouldn't be too hard to get a title. All you'd have to prove is that your cellar is the local branch of the Bank of America.

If just having money is the prerequisite, even counterfeiters could get in on it. Of course, they'd have phony titles.

And a guy who's in the chips more than anybody else would be doubly honored. For him they'd even throw in a subtitle.

Of course, with inflation on, things would look a little funny. You'd see an ad in the paper "Baron would like three-room castle already furnished." Or "Young knight desires to meet beautiful duchess. Object . . . to build a corporation."

I wonder if you would be able to marry into nobility in this setup. If a young lady had a lot of money, could she marry a guy and turn her Prince Charming into a charming prince?

I may be old-fashioned but I like things the way they are. It would be so embarrassing to stop a guy on the street, say, "Got a match, Your Grace?" and find out he was only a doorman.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 28—It looks as if fate was finally catching up with the real-estate lobby. One of its most active spokesmen has been Congressman Charles Fletcher, San Diego Republican, who, though a frashman, was strategically placed on the House Banking and Currency Committee by the lobby's master wire-puller, Morton Bodfish.

Bodfish has now been indicted by the Justice Department, and Fletcher is now under investigation by the Home Loan Bank for some interesting operations in San Diego.

The board has sent its ace investigator, A. C. Newell, to California to probe the shaky finances of the Federal Savings and Loan Association which Fletcher heads. Thanks to the Congressman and his father, the association has got in up to its neck in a real-estate deal which may lose a lot of other people's money.

Fletcher founded the Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Diego and is still its president. Furthermore he draws a salary of $10,000, even while he is supposed to be devoting his full time to Congress.

Of course, as a Congressman, Fletcher introduced the bill to abolish rent control, has voted consistently against housing reforms and is a member of the joint committee on housing where he has done his best to sabotage the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. So, all in all, he hasn't done so badly by the housing lobby.

"Fletcher Park"

But in San Diego, Fletcher hasn't done so well by the people who invested in his Federal Savings and Loan Association. First, Fletcher's father sold a tract of land to a San Diego real-estate operator named Larry H. Imig, for around $30,000. Then young Fletcher turned around and loaned Imig the money which he, Imig, paid Fletcher's father for the land.

Following this, Imig erected a housing development which he named "Fletcher Park" in honor of the two gentlemen who sold him the land and loaned him other people's money to pay for it. Then Imig built another development which he named for himself "Imig Park," plus a swank hotel with swimming pool and night club which he named "Imig Park Manor."

Meanwhile, Imig kept borrowing money from Fletcher's Federal Savings and Loan Association, until his debt now runs to around $1,250,000—or about one-half the total assets of the association.

If this were Fletcher's money, it would be one thing. But what worries the Home Loan Bank board in Washington is that the U. S. Government has insured the San Diego Federal Savings and Loan Association and Uncle Sam may have to bail Fletcher out. That's why investigator Newell was sent to California.

Congressman Fletcher started in the Savings and Loan Business back in 1934 on only $9,500. He hit it just at the right time, shortly before the war boom. By the peak of the boom his association's total capital was swollen to nearly $3,000,000 — of which about half is tied up with one real-estate speculator.

Meanwhile, Congressman Fletcher blithely continues to vote against public housing. Obviously, if he can lend money to private speculators with a Government guarantee to bail him out, he isn't terribly interested in the low-cost public housing provided for in the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Bill.

Backstage In Italy

Now that the Italian elections are over, some of the backstage developments can be told.

One factor which influenced Italian votes was the State Department's offer to return Trieste to Italy—an offer which the Russians eventually turned down.

What wasn't known was that Tito had been planning to make exactly the same offer himself—on behalf of Russia. But U. S. intelligence services picked up this fact, and we beat Tito to it. This was some of the fastest footwork the State Department has put across in some ime.

Another factor was Ambassador Dunn's insistence that the American fleet get out of Italian waters. Some of the military men around the White House didn't like this advice, thought the fleet should remain. But Dunn argued its presence gave political ammunition to the Communists. He was right. The fleet was withdrawn, and the Comies had to pipe down.

One thing which nearly upset the applecart was the amendment by Congressman O'Konski of Wisconsin making Marshall Plan money available to Spain. Until this was reversed in the Senate, it had a bad backfire in Italy.

Note 1—When this writer was in Italy last winter, he traveled with Ambassador Dunn and Vice Premier Pacciardi to Naples to welcome the Friend Ship. Perhaps these were the two most incongruous people in Italy to be thrown together; for, during the Spanish Civil War Dunn was lined up on the side of Franco, while Col. Pacciardi commanded the Italian anti-Fascist troops in Spain fighting against Franco. Both, however, have now been working together in the belief that extremists of either the right or left are enemies of Italian democracy.

Note 2—President Truman has in mind a promotion for Ambassador Dunn. While he deserves one, his services are too important in Italy.

Merry-Go-Round

Some fast footwork is going on inside the State Department regarding the Marshall Plan. The plan has quietly eliminated $600,000,000 worth of machinery to Europe. Instead, $600,000,000 of food and grains have been added. What Europe needs most is machinery to build up its own industry. . . Congratulations to Colonial Airlines for completing 18 years of operation without a single fatal accident. It has flown a total of 192 million miles. . .New general counsel of the CIO is able Arthur Goldberg. . . The White House is unhappy over the public-relations setup of the Democratic National Committee, may clean out most of party headquarters. . .However, it's hard to do a good public-relations job when there's not too much to publicize.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

THE numerous and as yet ill-founded rumors of such dramatic events as a Washington meeting between Messrs, Marshall, Bevin and Bidault are froth on the surface of a vitally important tide. The crucial stage has been reached, in fact, in the effort to work out an enduring political and strategic relationship between Europe and this hemisphere.

As usual, the facts are considerably less stirring than the rumors they generate. Two main efforts are now going on. The first effort is to find out what the western Europeans can do to help themselves. The second effort is to find out what Congress will do to help the western Europeans.

The first problem is being tackled in London by the Permanent Military Committee of the Western European Union, comprising representatives of the staffs of Britain, France and Benelux countries. From earlier talks, it is already clear that their planning will be aimed at making it eventually possible to hold the line of the Rhine against Soviet attack. But the staffs must now decide which country is to contribute how many divisions; how the equipment is to be standardized; how command is to be unified, and what minimum of aid they will need from the United States.

The second problem, of what Congress can be induced to do at this time, has been and is being urgently tackled in talks between representatives of the Administration and the Congressional leaders. The chief men involved are Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Senator Vandenberg and Under Secretary Lovett constitute one of the most collaborative teams the capital has seen for a long time. It is symtomatic of the way they think alike that they had both reached the same conclusion before their meeting. Independently and without consultation, each had formed the opinion that what they call the "E.R.P. pattern" ought to be followed. The Europeans have therefore been asked to be pretty precise about their own plans for helping themselves, before starting any discussion of American help in this new political-strategic sphere. What is done here is thus partly dependent on the outcome in London.

There are several issues which could cause really violent disagreement in London. For example, Britain and the Benelux countries have already intimated that France should provide the manpower for more than two-thirds of the 45 to 50 divisions thought necessary to hold the Rhine line. It is hard to see how any but French divisions could be in position on the Rhine in time to repel an attack. The British consequently argue that their contribution should be chiefly in the form of air and naval power. But several factors, such as the corporate interests of the French air force and navy, and French memories of limited R.A.F. participation in the Battle of France, are going to make the French fight very hard against acceptance of the British-Benelux concept.

The perils ahead in London are fairly obvious. The desire of the western Europeans for American military guaranties is so strong, however, that the permanent military committee of the Western Union is expected to reach rather early agreement, at least in principle. If this government is not utterly hollow, the time for American action will then have come.

One point is already clear about our action. The Western Europeans have said frankly that in view of the political situation in this country, they would place no reliance on any mere Presidential or Executive declaration. The State Department sympathizes with this position. The President will therefore probably announce the American guaranty of Europe against aggression. But what the President says will be confirmed, at a minimum, by a bi-partisan resolution in the Senate.

This is the least that can be done if the western Europeans are not to conclude that American foreign policy is empty and meaningless. The other alternative being discussed is more elaborate. Under this alternative, the President would probably still issue a declaration committing this country to go to war if western Europe is attacked. The Senate, and perhaps the Congress as a whole, would still be asked to pass a confirming resolution. But it would also be announced, concurrently, that the United States government wished ultimately to negotiate a formal treaty with Europe. The spadework on such a treaty would then be begun at once; and the treaty would be offered to the next session of Congress.

Neither an early meeting between Marshall, Bevin and Bidault, nod immediate launching of lend-lease for Europe, is now likely. A Bevin-Bidault-Marshall meeting can hardly take the place until decisions have been taken which will assure the meeting's success. Military lend-lease cannot be launched until military plans are formulated and agreed upon. But the main thing is that the grand design—the preliminary organization of the non-Soviet world—is already in hand.

Congress Will Decide What Is To Be Spent For Defense

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 28—Congress will decide what will be spent for armament—not the President or the Secretary of Defense or any unified agency.

This means that each of the armed services will always go to the court of last resort—Congress—to persuade that body to spend what each service says is needed for security.

Nearly two years ago, when the "unification" controversy was at fever heat, W. Stuart Symington, who was then assistant secretary for air in the War Department, urged that there be a single department and a single budget and that the decisions as to what each service should have should be made by the single department.

This correspondent took issue then with that concept and pointed out how dangerous it would be to have the director of the budget or a single officer in the Executive Department make such a decision. Fortunately for Mr. Symington, his view has not prevailed and he is the first under "unification" to take advantage of the historic practice of making a case to Congress for the armed service he represents.

Precedent Very Important

The precedent is very important. It means that when the Army or the Navy or the Air Force differs hereafter with the secretary of defense, the argument will be carried to Congress and that body will decide. Mr. Symington in his speech on June 17, 1946, before the economic club of Detroit, said:

"If there is to be any limitation on the amount the American taxpayer can afford to put into national security, however, naturally that amount available must be divided up between the Army, Navy, and the Air Force. If one of the services gets more than its share, obviously another will get less."

Mr. Symington fortunately has dropped the idea. Today he contends that the Navy or the Army are entitled to whatever they can get from Congress and there is no disposition on his part to pare down what the other services get. This is a logical and proper position. It leaves him free to urge the spending of more money for the Air Force no matter what the other services get. That's what has always happened in Congress. Each service makes its own case and Congress decides as to what total should be spent.

There may come a time when the President and the secretary of defense will not give the Navy, for example, the money it believes necessary for national security. It will be proper then for the Navy to take its case to Congress and try to get more appropriations than the executive branch of the government will have recommended.

It is important that Congress always get all availiable information. Heretofore the Budget Bureau has pared down military requests and there has been a tendency to gag the military officers. To the credit of Secretary of Defense Forrestal, it must be noted that he has not endeavored to gag the secretary of air or anybody else who wants to urge military reaons for increasing the appropriations.

Truman's Position Embarrassing

In all the present discussion, of course, President Truman is in an embarrassing position because, theoretically, at least, he is commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy—There is no mention of the Air Force in the Constitution. He is also the head of the cabinet, and he could tell the Secretary of Air that he is going beyond the administration's recommendations.

But Mr. Truman isn't doing this. He is standing behind the Secretary of Defense, who takes the position that all the facts should be laid before Congress. If that body wants to spend more billions for defense and the country approves of deficit financing and higher taxes, the responsibility is on Congress and not on the Executive who has asked for a limited budget. If, on the other hand, war breaks out soon, the responsibility for lack of preparedness will be on the President. So, anyone who can guess whether or not we are a few months or a few years away from war can tell who is right in the present controversy over military funds.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Rearmament

NOTHING better could have happened to this country at this time than the debate between Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and Secretary for Air W. Stuart Symington over the nature of our rearmament and its cost. Of course, the layman might ask the question, while listening to the debate, how it happened that this country, which gathered together and equipped the largest army, navy and air force in all the world, let it go down as low as the debaters say it has gone?

This is an astonishing performance, particularly as it is clear from the Byrnes, Hull and Stimson memoirs that it Russians were planning to sucwas evident at Yalta that the ceed to the Nazi conquests in Europe. Certainly, by Potsdam there could be no doubt about their intentions.

Why then were the Army, Navy and Air Force practically disbanded; why were stores of equipment abandoned, destroyed or sold at a few cents on the dollar?

Forrestal insists upon a balanced defense within the margins of the economic and political needs of the country. He insists that while the air force is important and while a war can be lost for the wants of an adequate one, an army and navy are still needed. For instance, the possession by Soviet Russia of a large submarine fleet, consisting of the latest type German submarines against which we have not yet perfected a defense, is serious. Without a navy, the lanes of traffic across the seas could be closed. The Army still is needed for occupation. The atomic bomb will not win a war, although it may destroy cities.

Even domestically, an army is needed to put down Fifth Column forces which already exist in the United States, in what dimensions nobody knows positively.

All this is admitted, but the point Secretary Symington makes is that Russia is outproducing us 12 to 1 in airplanes. Frankly ,that gave me the shivers when I first heard it and even the second time. Then I began to wonder how much of the Russian fleet was of their manufacture and how much we gave them by Lend-Lease. We gave them radar as a gift. What else did we give them as a gift?

Then I asked myself another question: For nearly 300 years, since Peter the Great tried to introduce manufactures in Russia, they produced nearly nothing. During all of Stalin's Five-Year Plans, they produced very little compared with the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Japan. The Germans almost had them until the United States intervened in the war, and then we gave them, through Lend-Lease, $11,000,000,000 of supplies. Nevertheless, we reached the Berlin area before they did, although we had a longer way to go. The fact that our troops were called back to the Elbe to wait until the Russians arrived in Berlin, in no measure vitiates the fact that the United States by land and air activity knocked the German out in his capital.

Suddenly, Russia becomes a primary manufacturing country, capable of outproducing the United States in the manufacture of airplanes by 12 to 1. I would like to know more about that. Certainly, Germany could not and did not outproduce this country, and Germany was more advanced in production than any country except the United States.

Even if nothing had been destroyed in Germany during the war; even if the entire German plant remained intact; even if none of it was in Western Germany but all in the Russian areas of Germany, their plant was never equal to ours. Why then did we permit the Russians to beat us in an armament race, if Russia has beaten us?

I don't know, but it seems that James Forrestal is viewing the whole question of rearmament with greater balance, with a more rounded picture of the United States. It is easier to follow him and accept his judgment, but we need figures on the actual Russian capacity to produce. In those figures lie our peril and our safety—and as Secretary of Defense Forrestal seems to be reasonable in his outlook, why not take the American people into his confidence?

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

My only stand in politics is based on the possibility of a third world war. The Democrats have had the first two and the Republicans are entitled to a time at the bat.

But that interesting event seems as remote as a giraffe's upper lip. Somebody must have buzzed Stalin that we now have radar that looks you up in the telephone book.

Those fellows down at Aberdeen say we can build a flying missle that can reach any spot in the world. And if Stalin has an ear to the ground he should hear the Rhubarb growing.

You know it is good to let a family secret out every so often just to keep the neighbors contented.

Now the government says all lobby-gowsters must register with the committee under-the-counter. Every high pressure cooker will have a dinner bell on the pay-off window.

It was different in the old days when the legislation directors walked tippy-toed through the tulips and never went back for their hats.

They threw no shadows on glass doors, answered no telephones and kept no more books than an Indian selling a moose on the hoof.

From now on out the lobbyist has a number and a rating. They may call it progress but I claim they have taken the bloom off the rose, the fuzz off the peach and the romance out of the fix. I'll play these.

Today is one of those times. The 1949 Mercury on our floor is the car.

With your very first look you'll know Mercury is new, all-new. From the front? Mercury is wider, with strikingly handsome grillwork, and exciting new fender treatment completely enclosed in a sleek, graceful, curved-arch silhouette. From the side? Mercury is longer and lower, with a poised-for-flight look that gives an illusion of motion even when the car is standing still. From the back? Mercury has all the luxurious styling you expect to find only in a car far above Mercury's price class.

This 1949 Mercury is a product of 1949-plus engineering. It has a big, rugged frame—with safety, stamina and down-to earth roadability in every inch of it. There's all-new spring suspension, with a lullaby ride above it.

New safer, wider rims—with new, bigger super-balloon tires—make shocks and side-sway a thing of the past. There are all-new super-brakes with velvety "STOP" in 'em, and a new 8-cylinder, V-type power plant with get-up-and-"GO" in it—a power plant designed and built exclusively for Mercury! Speaking of the work shop, Mrs. Doty explained that Region 2 is composed of New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia, West Virginia and Virginia. Each state president and at least one member of each state Congress of Parents and Teachers has been invited to attend the regional workshop to be held at the University of Maryland from June 28 to July 2. William Lee, chairman of the Legislative committee of the national congress, will address the group Friday and Saturday. Representatives of the Delaware and District of Columbia departments of Education will be the speakers in the symposium on "Improving Community Relationships in a Changing Society."

Mrs. Doty will be a guest at the 35th annual convention of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers on May 3 and 4 in Washington. The theme will be "Our Four-Point Program," and Mrs. L. W. Hughes, president of the national congress, will speak on "Looking into the Future" at the opening session. After routine business meetings and symposiums it will conclude with a Fellowship dinner at the Shoreham Hotel.

A National Conference on Family Life is another date on Mrs. Doty's schedule. It will be held May 5, 6, 7 and 8, with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers one of the 32 national organizations sponsoring it. It is to be held in the Departmental and Lisner auditoriums in Washington.

The fall convention will be planned at the meeting of the Advisory Council of State Teachers Association to be held May 8 in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore. The Maryland Congress will participate in the fall convention, and Mrs. Doty will plan its part.

Then, on May 20, she will leave for the National Convention in Cleveland, and the pre-convention meetings, which consist of the State Presidents' conference and National Board meeting. Strip Mining Law Is Challenged By County Coal Firms

Court Asked To Check Constitutionality

The constitutionality of an act regulating strip mining, was challenged in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday in a petition filed by Walter C. Capper and William S. Jenkins, attorneys for the Maryland Coal and Realty Company and the Tri-State Construction Company.

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a temporary restraining order against the Bureau of Mines of the State of Maryland and the state's attorney of Allegany County preventing enforcement of the act.

A show cause order was also signed requiring the defendants to show cause on or before May 20 why the restraining order should not become permanent.

The bill of complaint in the suit states that the two companies own various coal lands in Allegany county, including former properties of the Consolidation Coal Company at Eckhart Farms, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, and of the Yates and Hansel holdings.

Uuderlaid With Coal

The bill adds parts of the lands are underlaid with bituminous coal, which is suitable for mining by the "open pit" or "strip mining" method, whereby the strata or material sometimes known as overburden is removed. It is stated this is the only practical and profitable method of mining such coal.

The bill also states that the General Assembly of Maryland enacted into law Chapter 16 of said Acts of 1947 pertaining to strip mining of bituminous coal and fire clay throughout the state, excepting Garrett county. The act was approved by Gov. Lane on November 10, 1947.

The said chapter is alleged to be invalid, illegal, unconstitutional and of no force and effect. It provides that before any operator shall engage in open pit mining of coal or fire clay he shall pay a filing fee of $100 and register with the Bureau of Mines of Maryland by filing a certificate giving certain information as to his proposed operations for one year immediately following.

Must File Bond

The operator must also file with the Bureau of Mines a surety bond on a form prescribed and furnished by the bureau, payable to the state and conditioned that the operator shall faithfully perform all of the requirements of said act. It is provided that the bond shall be in an amount to be specified by the director of the Bureau of Mines, but in no event shall be less than $5,000 or more than $20,000.

The complainants allege that Chapter 16 of the Acts of 1947 is invalid and unconstitutional in that it is a special act and conflicts with Section 33 of Article 3 of the Constitution of Maryland. The act upon its face purports to be an act applying to the entire state of Maryland, with the exception of Garrett county, but the complainants allege that there is no merchantable bituminous coal in any other counties of Maryland but Allegany and Garrett, and thus, the act can only be applicable so far as Allegany county is concerned.

It is further alleged that the method of having the director of the Bureau of Mines set the amount of surety bond does not specify any standard by which he shall arrive at the amount of the bond and is left to his uncontrolled and arbitrary discretion, and action and is null and void.

Object to Replacement

The complainants also object to the provision which calls for the operator to place sufficient overburden in the open cut to cover the exposed faces of coal or fire clay seams. In addition the operator is required to level the peaks and ridges of spoilbanks to such a degree as the director may prescribe as necessary to restore the surface to a condition favorable to the growth of trees, grasses or shrubs.

Insofar as it purports to be a law enacted in the exercise of the police power, the act, as it is framed and by its provisions has no real or substantial relation to public health, public morals, public safety and general welfare, according to the complainants. They also charge that under the guise of generally improving the use and enjoyment of the lands of the state, protecting bird and wildlife, decreasing soil erosion and aiding in the prevention of the pollution of rivers and streams and preventing the combustion of unmined coal, is a palpable, clear and arbitrary invasion of the freedom of contract right to pursue a rightful calling, rights of property, liberty and pursuit of happiness of the complainants as corporations engaged in strip minining.

Violation of Rights

They state that under this reasoning it is in violation of the rights guaranteed under the 23rd Article of the Declaration of Rights of the Maryland Constitution and the due process clause of the Constitution of the United States.

The complainants also state that Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney for Allegany county, is charged with enforcing and prosecuting all state cases in this county and that under the strip mining act J. J. Rutledge, director of the Bureau of Mines, purporting and pretending to be vested with powers to enforce the said act, is allegedly exercising the powers vested in the duly elected and qualified state's attorney.

The complainants ask that the act be declared unconstitutional. They also ask that a copy of the bill of Complaint be served upon Hall Hammond, attorney general of Maryland, in accordance with requirements of the annotated code of Maryland.

Orbello Faces Twin Gambling Charges

Frank Orbello, North Mechanic Street pool hall employe, who was arrested Monday on a state gambling charge, last night faced an additional charge for gaming operations under the city's ordinances.

Orbello, was released on $500 bond pending a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court Saturday morning, was summoned Tuesday by City Police to face an additional charge at the same time.

The earlier arrest resulted from a warrant sworn to by Louis Baker, Allegany Inn, who told police he lost nearly $400 in Orbello's pool hall Sunday afternoon. The second charge was ordered by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

Youthful Trio Held In Auto Theft Case

A fifteen-year-old local high school girl and her two male companions last night were awaiting court action after police arrested them earlier on automobile larceny charges.

Identified as Dorothy Lee Stevens, Winifred Road, William E. Simpson, 146 Frederick Street, and Richard Newhouse, 312 Davidson Street, police said the trio fled after the car they were in stalled near Central Y. M. C. A. early Tuesday morning.

The girl was released yesterday in the custody of her father pending a hearing Saturday morning in Juvenile Court. The two boys were still being held in city jail last night.

The trio, according to authorities, apparently took the car of Paul E. Cramer, Pittsburgh, from its parking place on Washington Street, near the Algonquin Hotel.

Informed of the theft by Cramer, police said they were checking for the machine when they saw the three youths drive by and then stall near the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Sharp To Supervise State Training Schools

BALTIMORE, April 27 (AP)—Dr. Edward Preston Sharp, director of community work for the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, today was named chief of the Division of Training Schools for Maryland.

J. Milton Patterson, director of the Maryland Department of Public Welfare, announced the appointment.

In the new $7,000-a-year post, Dr. Sharp will supervise the four state training schools for youngsters who have run afoul of the law and three private schools which care for delinquent children, sometimes at state expense.

Wallace Asks State Dept. "Inventory Of Cold War"

DES MOINES, Ia., April 28 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, making a personal bid for third party support in his home state, tonight demanded that the State Department give an "inventory of the cold war" with Russia.

That may lead to a peace treaty, he said.

Wallace narrowly missed being hit by two eggs thrown from an audience in Iowa City earlier today. But his reception there by about 3,000 University of Iowa students was generally friendly.

Baldanzi Sees Bloodshed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Auril 28 (AP)—A CIO official predicted today there would be "bloodshed" and "people killed" before a CIO southern organizing drive is ended.

The statement was made by George Baldanzi, executive vice president of the CIO Textile Workers Union and an assistant to the director of the unionization campaign, in a speech at the textile union's convention.

Dive Saves 52 On Plane

CLEVELAND, April 28 (AP)—The pilot of an American Airlines plane said he put his DC-6 into a 3,000-foot dive to blow out flames streaming from a burning engine and save 48 passengers and a crew of four from possible disaster today as the plane passed over Toledo at 21,000 feet altitude.

Air Capt. E. S. Swanson, the pilot whose quick action saved the plane, flew it on to Cleveland airport on the remaining three engines.

effect of the Van Horn suit challenging the pension payments, Lewis said:

"We'll be advised on that by competent legal counsel."

Van Horn was not present when Lewis and Bridges held their news conference announcing administrative plans for the pensions.

Bridges said he is anxious to get the pension fund going and that he will consider the question of continuing as neutral trustee after the initial steps have been completed.

Van Horn had no comment but promised a statement tomorrow.

WALLACE'S MANAGER CHARGES INTIMIDATION BY WEST VA. OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—C. B. Baldwin, campaign manager for Henry A. Wallace, charged today that local officials in West Virginia were waging a campaign of intimidation, violence and attempted bribery against Wallace petition circulators.

In a statement, Baldwin called on United States Attorney General Tom Clark and Gov. Clarence Meadows, of West Virginia, to stop the alleged campaign.

Local officials "have been using their office to instill a reign of terror in Logan County," Baldwin said. The statement added:

"In Lorado, Logan County, the constable and two aides, all armed, illegally took away the credentials of a petition circulator, confiscated his petitions, visited the homes of those who signed his petitions and intimidated them into removng their names.

"The campaign worker was offered $150 if he would beat up any Wallace circulators. A sworn deposition attests to this.

"Another witnessed statement reveals that a deputy sheriff tried to bride a circulator into surrendering his credentials. These and similar specific events give no hint of the atmosphere of terror that has been created in the county against negro citizens who are courageously trying to exercise their constitutional rights. x x x" fighters attacking Jaffa were operating from Bat Yam. Advices from Tel Aviv indicated these would be Haganah fighters, since Irgun was making the direct frontal assault on Jaffa from northerly Tel Aviv.

An official announcement said the RAF planes registered cannon hits on a building in Bat Yam used by the Jewish forces.

"Railway property in Jaffa is reported this afternoon to be ablaze," the announcement added. "A small number of Arabs evacuated Jaffa today."

The spokesman did not give strength of the attacking air force, but said he presumed one squadron of rocket-firing Spitfires was in action. Three such squadrons have been flown from Egypt to Palestine.

Gael Sullivan Resigns Demo Committee Post

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Gael Sullivan resigned today as executive director of the Democratic National Committee to accept a $50,000 a year job as executive vice president of the Theater Owners of America.

Sullivan said he will continue to be "strongly for President Truman and the cause of the Democratic Party."

would be in effect a military lend-lease bill for non-Communist foreign nations.

"But I'm afraid it is going to be too late to do anything about it now," Eaton told a reporter, pointing out that Congress expects to adjourn in June.

"We are not going to take it upon ourselves to write a bill," he added, "and apparently the departments downtown aren't able to get together on one. A bill like that would require long consideration."

Eaton disclosed that the committee directed the department to draw up the legislation during closed-door sessions when it considered the global economic aid bill, now enacted into law.

Dr. Sharp To Supervise State Training Schools

BALTIMORE, April 27 (AP)—Dr. Edward Preston Sharp, director of community work for the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, today was named chief of the Division of Training Schools for Maryland.

J. Milton Patterson, director of the Maryland Department of Public Welfare, announced the appointment.

In the new $7,000-a-year post, Dr. Sharp will supervise the four state training schools for youngsters who have run afoul of the law and three private schools which care for delinquent children, sometimes at state expense.

Wallace Asks State Dept. "Inventory Of Cold War"

DES MOINES, Ia., April 28 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, making a personal bid for third party support in his home state, tonight demanded that the State Department give an "inventory of the cold war" with Russia.

That may lead to a peace treaty, he said.

Wallace narrowly missed being hit by two eggs thrown from an audience in Iowa City earlier today. But his reception there by about 3,000 University of Iowa students was generally friendly.

Baldanzi Sees Bloodshed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Auril 28 (AP)—A CIO official predicted today there would be "bloodshed" and "people killed" before a CIO southern organizing drive is ended.

The statement was made by George Baldanzi, executive vice president of the CIO Textile Workers Union and an assistant to the director of the unionization campaign, in a speech at the textile union's convention.

Dive Saves 52 On Plane

CLEVELAND, April 28 (AP)—The pilot of an American Airlines plane said he put his DC-6 into a 3,000-foot dive to blow out flames streaming from a burning engine and save 48 passengers and a crew of four from possible disaster today as the plane passed over Toledo at 21,000 feet altitude.

Air Capt. E. S. Swanson, the pilot whose quick action saved the plane, flew it on to Cleveland airport on the remaining three engines.

effect of the Van Horn suit challenging the pension payments, Lewis said:

"We'll be advised on that by competent legal counsel."

Van Horn was not present when Lewis and Bridges held their news conference announcing administrative plans for the pensions.

Bridges said he is anxious to get the pension fund going and that he will consider the question of continuing as neutral trustee after the initial steps have been completed.

Van Horn had no comment but promised a statement tomorrow.

WALLACE'S MANAGER CHARGES INTIMIDATION BY WEST VA. OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—C. B. Baldwin, campaign manager for Henry A. Wallace, charged today that local officials in West Virginia were waging a campaign of intimidation, violence and attempted bribery against Wallace petition circulators.

In a statement, Baldwin called on United States Attorney General Tom Clark and Gov. Clarence Meadows, of West Virginia, to stop the alleged campaign.

Local officials "have been using their office to instill a reign of terror in Logan County," Baldwin said. The statement added:

"In Lorado, Logan County, the constable and two aides, all armed, illegally took away the credentials of a petition circulator, confiscated his petitions, visited the homes of those who signed his petitions and intimidated them into removng their names.

"The campaign worker was offered $150 if he would beat up any Wallace circulators. A sworn deposition attests to this.

"Another witnessed statement reveals that a deputy sheriff tried to bride a circulator into surrendering his credentials. These and similar specific events give no hint of the atmosphere of terror that has been created in the county against negro citizens who are courageously trying to exercise their constitutional rights. x x x"

fighters attacking Jaffa were operating from Bat Yam. Advices from Tel Aviv indicated these would be Haganah fighters, since Irgun was making the direct frontal assault on Jaffa from northerly Tel Aviv.

An official announcement said the RAF planes registered cannon hits on a building in Bat Yam used by the Jewish forces.

"Railway property in Jaffa is reported this afternoon to be ablaze," the announcement added. "A small number of Arabs evacuated Jaffa today."

The spokesman did not give strength of the attacking air force, but said he presumed one squadron of rocket-firing Spitfires was in action. Three such squadrons have been flown from Egypt to Palestine.

Baltimorean Heads Md. Vets-For-"Ike" Group

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Samuel Frank, Baltimore, was announced today as Maryland state director of a veterans for Eisenhower organization.

The group, composed of former servicemen, proposes to draft ex-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a candidate for president on the Democratic ticket.

Gael Sullivan Resigns Demo Committee Post

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Gael Sullivan resigned today as executive director of the Democratic National Committee to accept a $50,000 a year job as executive vice president of the Theater Owners of America.

He will leave the committee May 10 and assume his new duties June 1.

Sullivan said he will continue to be "strongly for President Truman and the cause of the Democratic Party."

would be in effect a military lend-lease bill for non-Communist foreign nations.

"But I'm afraid it is going to be too late to do anything about it now," Eaton told a reporter, pointing out that Congress expects to adjourn in June.

"We are not going to take it upon ourselves to write a bill," he added, "and apparently the departments downtown aren't able to get together on one. A bill like that would require long consideration."

Eaton disclosed that the committee directed the department to draw up the legislation during closed-door sessions when it considered the global economic aid bill, now enacted into law.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS) — Southpaw pitchers are quite likely to settle the fate of at least half a dozen major league clubs this season.

Pennants have been won without an outstanding lefthander on the staff but the history of the game demonstrates that pennant winners as a rule had at least one good one to throw at the opposition.

Old Connie Mack had some of the greatest—Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank and Bob Grove. Everybody remembers what Carl Hubbell meant to the Giants and Lefty Gomez to the Yanks. And oldtimers will recall that when George Stallings' miracle team, the Braves, went from last place to win the pennant in 1914, the trio who turned the trick were Rudolph, Tyler and James. Tyler was the lefty of the trio.

It is not too far-fetched to say that the American League flag this year may go to the team which gets most out of its southpaws.

For instance, where would the Red Sox be if Mickey Harris, Mel Parnell and Earl Johnson fail to win? Where would the Yanks have finished last year without Joe Page? And what would they do this year without that same Page, Ed Lopat and Tom Byrne?

The Tigers will rise or fall on the success or failure of Hal Newhouser and Fritz Overmire.

The Indians are more fortunate than the others. They have so much right handed strength they won't have to depend on a lefty. And yet, one of the portsiders, rookie Gene Bearden, might give them a tremendous lift.

The other American League clubs have no particular pennant aspirations. Yet the work of their lefthanders can make a big difference in the final standing of their respective clubs.

The Browns will lean heavily on Sam Zoldak and Al Gerheuser. The Senators count on little Milt Haefner, and Connie Mack may have a big winner in rookie Lou Brissie, the severely wounded war hero.

The National League is similarly situated. The Braves must have Warren Spahn a big winner or they will get nowhere. The Dodgers have four lefties on whom they are leaning heavily—Preacher Roe, Joe Hatten, who won 17 for them last year, Dwain Sloat and John Van Cuyk.

The Cubs have an ace in Johnny Schmitz and another prospective winner in Cliff Chambers who won 24 for Los Angeles last season.

The Giants also have a "must" winner in Dave Koslo who may get some help from rookie Earl McGowan. The Reds have three fair lefties in Johnny Vandermeer, Kent Peterson and Ken Raffensberger. The Phils also are counting on a trio of southpaws in Ken Heintzelman, Oscar Judd and the highly touted rookie, Curt Simmons. And the Pirates look for help from Vic Lombardi and Fritz Ostermueller.

But the Cardinals need southpaw help more than all others. In fact the Cards can't win if their southpaws fail.

If Howie Pollet, Harry Brecheen and Alf Brazle should all flop, their defection would be disastrous. In fact, should either Pollet or Brecheen fail, the Cardinals surely would sink.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. April 28—(AP)—More than 465 entrants are expected to compete in the 27th annual field day to be held at the University of Maryland.

Illegal Killing Draws Ire Of Sportsmen

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Plans for a concerted drive against the illegal killing of game in Bedford County, Pa., were formulated at a meeting of two Hyndman area sports clubs held in Hyndman early this week.

Officials of the state game and fish commission who attended the conference of the Hyndman-Londonderry Township Isaac Walton League and the Wills Creek Rod and Gun Club promised additional protection to aid the clubs, members reported.

Plans were also made for the planting of grain crops on abandoned farms and areas available for wildlife.

Spahn Hurls Two Hit Shutout As Braves Win 7-0

Only 28 Batters Face Lefthander

BOSTON, April 28—(AP)—A two-hitter that southpaw Warren Spahn described as "the best performance of my major league career" enabled the Boston Braves to shutout the Philadelphia Phils, 7-0, today before 3,681 teeth-chattering spectators.

Although only 28 Phillies faced Spahn, three of them managed to reach first base. Dick Sisler and Blix Donnelly singled in the fifth and sixth innings and Del Ennis gained first on an error. But Sisler and Ennis were thrown out trying to steal.

Spahn, while gaining his first win in two 1948 starts, did not issue a pass and had four strikeouts. Box:

CINCINNATI WINS, 8-1

CINCINNATI, April 28 — (AP) — Johnny Vander Meer held the Chicago Cubs to six hits today while Cincinnati pounded starter Johnny Schmitz and two other pitchers for a dozen safeties to win, 8-1.

It was Vandy's second start of the season and his first victory. Four errors by the Chicago infield helped Cincinnati runners around the paths.

Ray Mueller, catcher for the locals, fractured his right ankle sliding into home plate in the fifth inning and probably will be out of action for 60 days, Redleg officials said.

Virgil Stallcup, the Red's rookie shortstop, was a batting star, getting three hits and knocking in as many runs. Box:

Records Broken As Majors End One Week's Play

Numerous Thrills Presented Fans

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP) — Although it is only a little more than a week old, the 1948 major league baseball season, already has presented the fans with numerous thrills, surprises and unusual occurrences.

One new record already has been set, another equalled and several old standards have come mighty close to toppling.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, in using 24 players against the New York Giants April 21, set a record of number of players used in a nine-inning game. The four second basemen used in that contest by the Dodgers probably is another record, although such statistics never have been kept.

Foxx Holds Record

Max West, back in the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates, tied a National League mark by coaxing five bases on balls in a game against the Cincinnati Reds April 25. Jimmy Foxx holds the major league record of six walks in a game. On the same day, Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians struck out five straight times, to come within one of the record set by Carl Weilman of the St. Louis Browns in 1913.

When Lou Boudreau of Cleveland banged out five hits April 26, four of them for extra bases, he came within one of tying the modern extra base hit record of five—set by himself two years ago.

Through games of April 27, a total of 90 home runs have been hit in the majors, 47 by the National and 43 by the American League. Rookies have accounted for 13 of them.

Three players have swatted home runs with the bases full. They are Walker Cooper of the New York Giants, Tom McBride of Washington and Wally Westlake of Pittsburgh.

On the other side of the picture, nine pitchers have held the opposition scoreless through Tuesday's games.

Big Winners Lose

The best of the shutout games were pitched by Bobby Feller, Indians; Sheldon Jones, Giants and Elmer Riddle, Pirates. Each hurled a two-hitter. Johnny Schmitz of the Chicago Cubs also pitched a two-hitter, but lost 1-0. Russ Meyer held the St. Louis Cardinals to one hit, but was nicked for a run in winning 3-1.

Oddly enough, three of last year's five 20-game winners in the National League, have been unable to register their first victory this year. Johnny Sain of Boston and Ralph Branca have been driven from the mound twice in losing starts, and Warren Spahn of the Braves has dropped his only start.

Larry Jansen, the Giants' 21-game winner last year, waited until his third start to enter the victory column. Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, biggest winner last year at 22, has won two out of three decisions.

The longest winning streak is six, held by the Giants. The longest losing skein is five, compiled by the Detroit Tigers.

Cooper Has Chip Fracture Of Knee

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Walker Cooper, heavy-hitting catcher of the New York Giants, has a chip fracture in his left knee, and will be out of the lineup for several days, the Giants announced today.

Cooper was injured in a collision with Catcher Bobby Bragan of Brooklyn on April 21, but it was not until today that he learned he had suffered a fracture. At the time it was believed Cooper had simply suffered a bruise. X-rays taken seven days after the mishap, showed differently, however.

After two days of rest, big Coop redonned his mask and chest protector and caught four of the Giants' last five games. He pounded out three home runs, which added to the four-bagger he clouted opening day, enabled him to tie Cincinnati's Hank Sauer for the National League lead.

Woodmen Sponsor 2 Softball Teams

One team will consist of boys ranging in ages from eight to 12 while the second squad will have players with ages from 12 to 16.

Any teams of corresponding ages who would like to have games scheduled with either of the two Woodmen teams, contact George Sommerkamp, director of the teams, at the Woodmen home or call 1977-W.

The older Woodmen team will meet Carl's Big C's in a practice tilt at Fort Hill Sunday, May 2, at 2:30 p. m.

Interstate League Opens 108-Game Card Sunday

Hyndman, Barrelville, Moorefield, Centerville Are Hosts; Seven Clubs Play In Three Parks

The Interstate Baseball League, a nine-club circuit, will open its 108-game schedule on Sunday with inaugural tilts set for Hyndman, Barrelville Moorefield and Centerville.

This year's schedule was a rather difficult one to arrange due to the fact that provisions had to be made to accommodate seven clubs of two different leagues in three parks, namely, Hyndman, Stitcher Field and Community Park. The Eagles and Cumberland Legion of the Interstate and the Amvets of the Bi-State League will play their home games at Community Park, the Moose and Queen City Brewers at Stitcher Field and the Firemen and Legion teams at Hyndman. Adding to the difficulties encountered mapping out such a schedule was the fact that an even number of clubs are competing in the circuit this season.

The Amvets play 18 games at home, the Legion 12 and the Eagles 12—a total of 42 at Community Park. In order tosqueeze 42 games into 40 playing dates it was necessary to arrange two double-headers with the Eagles and Legion teams playing hosts. The first of the dual bills is set for May 16 while the second is scheduled July 18. Postponed games for the teams scheduled to play at Community Park will likely be twilight affairs.

The Interstate teams each play a schedule of 24 games spread out over 40 playing dates which will give loop teams an opportunity to play independent clubs or utilize those dates for the playing of postponed contests.

Albino Deer Seen In Tucker County

PARSONS, W. Va., April 28.—Conservation Officer Fielding Kyer has had numerous reports from residents of the Miller Hill section of Tucker county who stated that they had seen a snow white deer.

Kyer vouches for that fact as he and Lester Miller, conservation officer of Moundsville viewed the Albino deer only a few yards from them this week as they were traveling on the Miller Hill road.

The large white deer was with four other brown deer. Due to the season of the year they could not determine if it is a buck or a doe.

Mullin Smashes First Homerun

ST. LOUIS, April 28 (AP)— Snapping a losing streak at five straight, the Detroit Tigers walloped St. Louis 9-4 today and tumbled the Browns from second place in the American League chase.

Eddie Mayo, Pat Mullin and Walter (Hoot) Evers sparked the Detroit attack, witnessed by a small crowd of 2,182 which brought the total attendance for the three-game series to only 5,552.

Mullin hit a home run, a double and a single, and Mayo had three singles. Evers drove in three of the runs with a three-bagger and an outfield fly.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks struck out seven in gaining credit for the victory but weakened in the eighth and was replaced by Paul (Dizzy) Trout. Al Gerheauser, kayoed in a four-run first inning, was the loser.

Mullin's homer to the right field pavilion roof came in the sixth inning with none on. Outlaw scored Detroit's final run on Jim Wilson's wild pitch in the final inning. Box:

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS) — Southpaw pitchers are quite likely to settle the fate of at least half a dozen major league clubs this season.

Pennants have been won without an outstanding lefthander on the staff but the history of the game demonstrates that pennant winners as a rule had at least one good one to throw at the opposition.

Old Connie Mack had some of the greatest—Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank and Bob Grove. Everybody remembers what Carl Hubbell meant to the Giants and Lefty Gomez to the Yanks. And oldtimers will recall that when George Stallings' miracle team, the Braves, went from last place to win the pennant in 1914, the trio who turned the trick were Rudolph, Tyler and James. Tyler was the lefty of the trio.

It is not too far-fetched to say that the American League flag this year may go to the team which gets most out of its southpaws.

For instance, where would the Red Sox be if Mickey Harris, Mel Parnell and Earl Johnson fail to win? Where would the Yanks have finished last year without Joe Page? And what would they do this year without that same Page, Ed Lopat and Tom Byrne?

The Tigers will rise or fall on the success or failure of Hal Newhouser and Fritz Overmire.

The Indians are more fortunate than the others. They have so much right handed strength they won't have to depend on a lefty. And yet, one of the portsiders, rookie Gene Bearden, might give them a tremendous lift.

The other American League clubs have no particular pennant aspirations. Yet the work of their lefthanders can make a big difference in the final standing of their respective clubs.

The Browns will lean heavily on Sam Zoldak and Al Gerheuser. The Senators count on little Milt Haefner, and Connie Mack may have a big winner in rookie Lou Brissie, the severely wounded war hero.

The National League is similarly situated. The Braves must have Warren Spahn a big winner or they will get nowhere. The Dodgers have four lefties on whom they are leaning heavily—Preacher Roe, Joe Hatten, who won 17 for them last year, Dwain Sloat and John Van Cuyk.

The Cubs have an ace in Johnny Schmitz and another prospective winner in Cliff Chambers who won 24 for Los Angeles last season.

The Giants also have a "must" winner in Dave Koslo who may get some help from rookie Earl McGowan. The Reds have three fair lefties in Johnny Vandermeer, Kent Peterson and Ken Raffensberger. The Phils also are counting on a trio of southpaws in Ken Heintzelman, Oscar Judd and the highly touted rookie, Curt Simmons. And the Pirates look for help from Vic Lombardi and Fritz Ostermueller.

But the Cardinals need southpaw help more than all others. In fact the Cards can't win if their southpaws fail.

If Howie Pollet, Harry Brecheen and Alf Brazle should all flop, their defection would be disastrous. In fact, should either Pollet or Brecheen fail, the Cardinals surely would sink.

Illegal Killing Draws Ire Of Sportsmen

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Plans for a concerted drive against the illegal killing of game in Bedford County, Pa., were formulated at a meeting of two Hyndman area sports clubs held in Hyndman early this week.

Officials of the state game and fish commission who attended the conference of the Hyndman-Londonderry Township Isaac Walton League and the Wills Creek Rod and Gun Club promised additional protection to aid the clubs, members reported.

Plans were also made for the planting of grain crops on abandoned farms and areas available for wildlife.

Only 28 Batters Face Lefthander

BOSTON, April 28—(AP)—A two-hitter that southpaw Warren Spahn described as "the best performance of my major league career" enabled the Boston Braves to shutout the Philadelphia Phils, 7-0, today before 3,681 teeth-chattering spectators.

Although only 28 Phillies faced Spahn, three of them managed to reach first base. Dick Sisler and Blix Donnelly singled in the fifth and sixth innings and Del Ennis gained first on an error. But Sisler and Ennis were thrown out trying to steal.

Spahn, while gaining his first win in two 1948 starts, did not issue a pass and had four strikeouts. Box:

CINCINNATI WINS, 8-1

CINCINNATI, April 28 — (AP) — Johnny Vander Meer held the Chicago Cubs to six hits today while Cincinnati pounded starter Johnny Schmitz and two other pitchers for a dozen safeties to win, 8-1.

It was Vandy's second start of the season and his first victory. Four errors by the Chicago infield helped Cincinnati runners around the paths.

Ray Mueller, catcher for the locals, fractured his right ankle sliding into home plate in the fifth inning and probably will be out of action for 60 days, Redleg officials said.

Virgil Stallcup, the Red's rookie shortstop, was a batting star, getting three hits and knocking in as many runs. Box:

Records Broken As Majors End One Week's Play

Numerous Thrills Presented Fans

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP) — Although it is only a little more than a week old, the 1948 major league baseball season, already has presented the fans with numerous thrills, surprises and unusual occurrences.

One new record already has been set, another equalled and several old standards have come mighty close to toppling.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, in using 24 players against the New York Giants April 21, set a record of number of players used in a nine-inning game. The four second basemen used in that contest by the Dodgers probably is another record, although such statistics never have been kept.

Foxx Holds Record

Max West, back in the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates, tied a National League mark by coaxing five bases on balls in a game against the Cincinnati Reds April 25. Jimmy Foxx holds the major league record of six walks in a game. On the same day, Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians struck out five straight times, to come within one of the record set by Carl Weilman of the St. Louis Browns in 1913.

When Lou Boudreau of Cleveland banged out five hits April 26, four of them for extra bases, he came within one of tying the modern extra base hit record of five—set by himself two years ago.

Through games of April 27, a total of 90 home runs have been hit in the majors, 47 by the National and 43 by the American League. Rookies have accounted for 13 of them.

Three players have swatted home runs with the bases full. They are Walker Cooper of the New York Giants, Tom McBride of Washington and Wally Westlake of Pittsburgh.

On the other side of the picture, nine pitchers have held the opposition scoreless through Tuesday's games.

Big Winners Lose

The best of the shutout games were pitched by Bobby Feller, Indians; Sheldon Jones, Giants and Elmer Riddle, Pirates. Each hurled a two-hitter. Johnny Schmitz of the Chicago Cubs also pitched a two-hitter, but lost 1-0. Russ Meyer held the St. Louis Cardinals to one hit, but was nicked for a run in winning 3-1.

Oddly enough, three of last year's five 20-game winners in the National League, have been unable to register their first victory this year. Johnny Sain of Boston and Ralph Branca have been driven from the mound twice in losing starts, and Warren Spahn of the Braves has dropped his only start.

Larry Jansen, the Giants' 21-game winner last year, waited until his third start to enter the victory column. Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, biggest winner last year at 22, has won two out of three decisions.

The longest winning streak is six, held by the Giants. The longest losing skein is five, compiled by the Detroit Tigers.

Cooper Has Chip Fracture Of Knee

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Walker Cooper, heavy-hitting catcher of the New York Giants, has a chip fracture in his left knee, and will be out of the lineup for several days, the Giants announced today.

Cooper was injured in a collision with Catcher Bobby Bragan of Brooklyn on April 21, but it was not until today that he learned he had suffered a fracture. At the time it was believed Cooper had simply suffered a bruise. X-rays taken seven days after the mishap, showed differently, however.

After two days of rest, big Coop redonned his mask and chest protector and caught four of the Giants' last five games. He pounded out three home runs, which added to the four-bagger he clouted opening day, enabled him to tie Cincinnati's Hank Sauer for the National League lead.

Woodmen Sponsor 2 Softball Teams

Mountain City Camp No. 6, Woodmen of the World, will sponsor two juvenile softball teams this season, it was announced last night.

One team will consist of boys ranging in ages from eight to 12 while the second squad will have players with ages from 12 to 16.

Any teams of corresponding ages who would like to have games scheduled with either of the two Woodmen teams, contact George Sommerkamp, director of the teams, at the Woodmen home or call 1977-W.

The older Woodmen team will meet Carl's Big C's in a practice tilt at Fort Hill Sunday, May 2, at 2:30 p. m.

Interstate League Opens 108-Game Card Sunday

Hyndman, Barrelville, Moorefield, Centerville Are Hosts; Seven Clubs Play In Three Parks

The Interstate Baseball League, a nine-club circuit, will open its 108-game schedule on Sunday with inaugural tilts set for Hyndman, Barrelville Moorefield and Centerville.

This year's schedule was a rather difficult one to arrange due to the fact that provisions had to be made to accommodate seven clubs of two different leagues in three parks, namely, Hyndman, Stitcher Field and Community Park. The Eagles and Cumberland Legion of the Interstate and the Amvets of the Bi-State League will play their home games at Community Park, the Moose and Queen City Brewers at Stitcher Field and the Firemen and Legion teams at Hyndman. Adding to the difficulties encountered mapping out such a schedule was the fact that an even number of clubs are competing in the circuit this season.

The Amvets play 18 games at home, the Legion 12 and the Eagles 12—a total of 42 at Community Park. In order tosqueeze 42 games into 40 playing dates it was necessary to arrange two double-headers with the Eagles and Legion teams playing hosts. The first of the dual bills is set for May 16 while the second is scheduled July 18. Postponed games for the teams scheduled to play at Community Park will likely be twilight affairs.

The Interstate teams each play a schedule of 24 games spread out over 40 playing dates which will give loop teams an opportunity to play independent clubs or utilize those dates for the playing of postponed contests.

Albino Deer Seen In Tucker County

PARSONS, W. Va., April 28.—Conservation Officer Fielding Kyer has had numerous reports from residents of the Miller Hill section of Tucker county who stated that they had seen a snow white deer.

Kyer vouches for that fact as he and Lester Miller, conservation officer of Moundsville viewed the Albino deer only a few yards from them this week as they were traveling on the Miller Hill road.

The large white deer was with four other brown deer. Due to the season of the year they could not determine if it is a buck or a doe.

Mullin Smashes First Homerun

ST. LOUIS, April 28 (AP)— Snapping a losing streak at five straight, the Detroit Tigers walloped St. Louis 9-4 today and tumbled the Browns from second place in the American League chase.

Eddie Mayo, Pat Mullin and Walter (Hoot) Evers sparked the Detroit attack, witnessed by a small crowd of 2,182 which brought the total attendance for the three-game series to only 5,552.

Mullin hit a home run, a double and a single, and Mayo had three singles. Evers drove in three of the runs with a three-bagger and an outfield fly.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks struck out seven in gaining credit for the victory but weakened in the eighth and was replaced by Paul (Dizzy) Trout. Al Gerheauser, kayoed in a four-run first inning, was the loser.

Mullin's homer to the right field pavilion roof came in the sixth inning with none on. Outlaw scored Detroit's final run on Jim Wilson's wild pitch in the final inning. Box:

Ruth Is Honored At Japan Parks

TOKYO, April 28 (AP)—Babe Ruth was honored today in all Japanese professional baseball parks.

Four Japanese players who hit home runs here were given 1,000 yen ($20) each by Sekai Nippo, a Tokyo newspaper. Another 1,000 yen went to a home run hitter at Osaka.

A special message from American Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler was read to fans in Korakuen Park in Tokyo.

Miners Pensions May Number Over 500 Here

Miners in District 16, United Mine Workers of America, eligible for pensions were estimated roughly at around 500 by a district official last night.

Although a complete check has not been made to determine the exact number, the official declared that in 1944, the average age in the United States for miners was 48 years and that very few young men have started working as miners in this area since that time.

Terms of the tentative pension agreement specify: Pay, $100 a month; qualifications, 62 years old with 20 years' service in the mines; eligibility, all members of the United Mine Workers who retired after May 29, 1946.

Future Is Assured

Naval Bureau of Ordnance Wednesday gave assurance of future full-scale operations at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

In making the announcement, Navy officials said it was their intention to continue the Laboratory until at least 1950, or as long as the bureau's need for research and development continues.

Clarification of the permanency of the laboratory came this week following a plant visit from Rear Admiral M. F. Schoeffel, deputy chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, and members of his staff.

The laboratory was started during the war and was operated by the Kelly - Springfield Engineering Company.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sam's Hens Wear Spectacles!

Yes, it's a fact! Sam's brood of two dozen hens are wearing spectacles — which he bought from a mail-order house in Capitol City.

Sam says it works (and big poultry raisers say so, too). The hens see each other through soft colored glasses, and instead of fighting and picking at each other, they go around placidly, gain weight, and lay more eggs.

Makes me almost wish we could have rose-colored glasses for human beings, too. So that instead of quarreling and criticizing, like we do so much of the time, we'd live and let live in contentment.

From where I sit, the human race wastes a powerful lot of time in wrangling over minor issues ... whether a man should drink beer or cider ... whether a woman should wear slacks or skirts ... instead of seeing each other through "spectacles" of tolerance that enable us to live-and-let-live like Sam's brood of chickens.

The program will feature vocals by the group of five girls, soprano and also solos, artistic piano playing and several instrumental numbers on the vibra-harp, violin, electric Hawaiian guitar, saxophone, accordions and cathedral chimes.

Band To Festival

Members of the Keyser Band are requested by Frank C. Kight, chairman, to meet at the Legion Club rooms, North Main Street, tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock where transportation will be available to take them to Winchester where they will participate in the Apple Blossom Festival.

While in Winchester, the band will hold memorial services at the grave of Prof. McIlwee, former director of the Keyser Municipal Band.

Candidate Is Visitor

Paul L. Brothers, native of St. Albans, W. Va., seeking the Republican nomination for state auditor, was in Keyser and Piedmont Wednesday as part of his statewide campaign.

A veteran of both World Wars, Brothers served in the Navy during World War I and as supervisor of Selective Service boards and naval liaison officer for West Virginia and as military governor of Yap Island in the South Pacific during World War II.

The St. Albans veteran is widely known in American Legion circles and is also a member of the Naval Reserve Officers Association, Elks, Shriners and Masons. This is his first time to seek a political office.

Councilman's Neck Broken In Crash

By HELEN COLLETT

THOMAS, W. Va.—Attaches at Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins reported last night that Robert Steward, 38, Thomas councilman, is "getting along well" after suffering a fractured neck when a car in which he was riding skidded into a mine pit between Thomas and Davis late Saturday night.

Stewart was placed in a cast yesterday, attaches said.

Sheriff D. E. Crosten and Trooper Charles Burke of the Thomas State Police Detachment said that Stewart, an employe of Thomas Mine No. 23 of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, was a passenger in the 1936 sedan of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gorsky, Thomas.

Mrs. Gorsky told authorities that she, her husband and Stewart were driving on the roads around strip mines between Thomas and Davis when the car skidded into a 30-foot hole, turned completely over and landed on its wheels in four feet of water at the bottom of the pit.

The Thomas Volunteer Fire Department was called to pump water out of the pit before the car could be removed.

No other injuries were reported. Authorities said the investigation is continuing.

Suffers Eye Injuries

Mrs. Raymond Garrett, 63, instructor at Frostburg State Teachers College, suffered painful eye injuries Tuesday night as her car hit the corner of a stone wall near the college, hospital attaches said. She was first taken to Miners Hospital and then later was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 28—(INS)—Prepare to meet Johnny Weissmuller's successor in the Edgar Rice Burroughs famous "Tarzan" series. His name is Lex Barker. He's 28, good looking, and made his first movie appearance as one of the brothers in "The Farmer's Daughter."

Mrs. Van Johnson

Like Johnny, he is the champion in the 50 - yard swimming dash, but unlike Johnny, is a graduate of Phillips-Exeter Academy. He's a track star, a football and tennis star.

Although Sol Lesser was sold on Barker, he sent Edgar Rice Burroughs a test for the author's approval. That forthcoming, Lex was signed, and his first is "Tarzan and the Fountain of Youth," which gets going in June. I doubt very much that Linda Christian will be in this "Tarzan" number, as she will be in Rome at that time.

Rome, Gregory Ratoff tells me, will be the gayest city in Europe, now that the communists lost the election.

Falcon's Lair, the home that Rudy Valentino built and lived in at the

"I knew," said Gregory, "they didn't have a chance, because Italy is first of all a religious country."

Gregory just finished "Cagliostro" there, and I hear that it is good.

Talked with Ralph Blum at Lana Turner's reception, and he told me he had that day put John Ireland under contract to Columbia.

John is the only actor in the entire cast who got a kind word from the New York stage critics in "Rats Of Norway," but even so, the boy didn't linger long in the big town after the show folded.

Now that John is back he will play the menace in "The Walking Hills" the Randy Scott-Ella Raines picture for Harry Joe Brown.

There are whispers that John is slightly terrific in Howard Hawk's movie, "The Red River," and he's okay in "Joan Of Arc" too.

Sam Goldwyn will have the world's biggest telephone bill if he doesn't stop calling Frances, his wife of more than 20 years, every five minutes. Kind of nice though that two people married as long as they still miss each other so much when they are parted.

Today, Sam received word that the Victorie, the French equivalent to our Academy, has awarded him their 1947 Oscar for "Best Years Of Our Lives." Although the cable is confidential and the award will not be announced in France until the end of the month, Sam just had to telephone Frances and his son, Sam, Jr., who are in Paris, and tell them the news.

Chatter in Hollywood: Mrs. Van Johnson was conspicuous by her absence both from the Lana Turner wedding and the reception. This was a surprise to everyone who knows how close Evie and Lana have always been in good times and times that were not so good.

Although Evie wasn't invited, she and Van sent Lana and Bob Topping a telegram of congratulations. thick that Dorothy McGuire will not play Nora in "The Doll's House" because she can't wait until it's ready. Although the Selznick company admits the Ibsen play has been postponed and up to now they have no script, they say Dorothy McGuire has not backed out.

Lillian Hellman has been handed the script, Al Sjoberg, Swedish director, is directing, and there will not be a whole galaxy of big stars, as Selznick usually uses. There will be the two principle characters, and the rest of the players will be selected from Swedish talent — if and when the picture reaches the screen.

•—•—•

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

"Naturally, I was surprised at not being invited," Evie said, "but I still wish Lana all the happiness in the world. Van, who has been very sick, is much better—that's the important thing," Evie told me.

Rumors have been flying fast and time of his death, is for sale again. This time the asking price is $125,000.

Ralph Bellamy, who hasn't been in town since he and his second wife, Ethel Smith, divorced, is here visiting his mother. But to all offers of a movie job Ralph is saying a big "no."

This I can hardly bear. Leif Erickson's 18-month-old son pulled a glass ashtray off the table. It broke and cut his eyeball. Up to now they don't know if the child will lose his sight in the eye.

On her way to work today Jane Wyman drove Michael, her young son, to Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where he parted company with his tonsils. The operation over, Jane went back to work, but kept telephoning all day. Michael is back home again, none the worse for his operation.

Ray Hendrix, Laraine Day's ex, has gone back into the business of selling airplanes. Did he marry again, or didn't he?

Lucille Ball was on hand for Desi Arnaz opening at Slapsy Maxie's—but naturally. Lucille gave a big party, and the Bob Huttons, Connie Boswell were there to give Desi a hand.

That's all today.

Sam Goldwyn will have the world's biggest telephone bill if he doesn't stop calling Frances, his wife of more than 20 years, every five minutes. Kind of nice though that two people married as long as they still miss each other so much when they are parted.

Today, Sam received word that the Victorie, the French equivalent to our Academy, has awarded him their 1947 Oscar for "Best Years Of Our Lives." Although the cable is confidential and the award will not be announced in France until the end of the month, Sam just had to telephone Frances and his son, Sam, Jr., who are in Paris, and tell them the news.

Chatter in Hollywood: Mrs. Van Johnson was conspicuous by her absence both from the Lana Turner wedding and the reception. This was a surprise to everyone who knows how close Evie and Lana have always been in good times and times that were not so good.

Although Evie wasn't invited, she and Van sent Lana and Bob Topping a telegram of congratulations. I think that Dorothy McGuire will not play Nora in "The Doll's House" because she can't wait until it's ready. Although the Selznick company admits the Ibsen play has been postponed and up to now they have no script, they say Dorothy McGuire has not backed out.

Lillian Hellman has been handed the script, Al Sjoberg, Swedish director, is directing, and there will not be a whole galaxy of big stars, as Selznick usually uses. There will be the two principle characters, and the rest of the players will be selected from Swedish talent — if and when the picture reaches the screen.

●—●—●

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

"Naturally, I was surprised at not being invited," Evie said, "but I still wish Lana all the happiness in the world. Van, who has been very sick, is much better—that's the important thing," Evie told me.

Rumors have been flying fast and time of his death, is for sale again. This time the asking price is $125,000.

Ralph Bellamy, who hasn't been in town since he and his second wife, Ethel Smith, divorced, is here visiting his mother. But to all offers of a movie job Ralph is saying a big "no."

This I can hardly bear. Leif Erickson's 18-month-old son pulled a glass ashtray off the table. It broke and cut his eyeball. Up to now they don't know if the child will lose his sight in the eye.

On her way to work today Jane Wyman drove Michael, her young son, to Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where he parted company with his tonsils. The operation over, Jane went back to work, but kept telephoning all day. Michael is back home again, none the worse for his operation.

Ray Hendrix, Laraine Day's ex, has gone back into the business of selling airplanes. Did he marry again, or didn't he?

Lucille Ball was on hand for Desi Arnaz opening at Slapsy Maxie's—but naturally. Lucille gave a big party, and the Bob Huttons, Connie Boswell were there to give Desi a hand.

That's all today.

Social Ailments Topic Of Special ABC Broadcast

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 28—A special hour's documentary dealing with social diseases is being prepared for ABC broadcast at 9:30 Thursday night. It bears the title "V. D."

George Hicks, veteran at the microphone, is to be the commentator. The program is being produced with the assistance of the U. S. Public Health Service and the School of Public Health at Columbia University. Included will be recorded interviews.

A few days out comes an announcement that Larry Parks, who played Al Jolson in the movie story of his life, would be a special guest of Al's ABC program at 9. Now is another announcement saying that the guest will be Victor Moore. The only explanation given in the listed shift was that "Moore will replace Parks, originally schedsuled for the guest spot."

Four folks of Hollywood are to help out in the Family Theater of MBS at 10 o'clock when the drama is to be "Their Only Sin." Gary Cooper will be there as "host," with Joan Carroll, Scott Beckett and Victory Jory all are to have parts in the acting.

Back will be Baker (Phil) with his latest version of what's a quiz show on CBS at 10. He calls it "Everybody Wins," although originally some reference was made to "Baker's Dozen" as a title.

The First Piano Quartet performs for a full half-hour (less announcements) for NBC at 11:30. This group also has a Saturday matinee show.

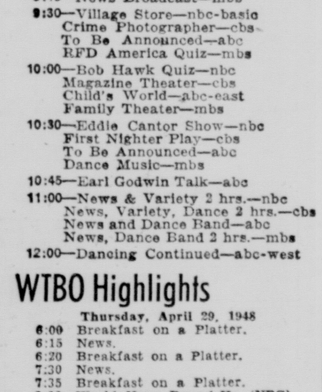
SALLY'S SALLIES



"I'm not allowed to chat with patrons. What number, please?"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Royalty On the Loose

"Queen for a Day," one of the jewels of daytime radio, is a vigorous audience participation show which has to be heard to be believed. I have a collection of notes on this program gathered during a spell of illness in which I spent a day in bed. There is no greater propellant toward health than a siege of daytime radio. I fled the sick room the following day and much of the cure I ascribe to "Queen for a Day."

John Crosby

This program is presided over by Jack Bailey, who is described as the Rumpelstiltskin of radio, an obscure literary reference which I'm sure flies over the heads of most of the audience. Rumpelstiltskin persuades four young ladies—if that's the proper phrase for them—to step up to the microphone and confide their heart's desire, the one thing in the world they want most. These heart's desires are weird enough to turn over to a cardiac specialist; a radio columnist just isn't equipped for it.

One young lady—I'm still not happy with that phrase—wanted rattlesnake serum. Another asked plaintively to be permitted to ring a burglar alarm which gives some idea of the clientele. One babe—that's better—wanted to jump out of an airplane. (Accompanied by a parachute, of course). Another wanted to prospect for gold in Alaska. One candid little miss declared vehemently that she wanted a husband. Rumpelstiltskin dredged her escort out of the audience and clubbed him into saying "yes" to her proposal. They got married too.

The day I was there a girl asked for a hearing aid for grandfather. Another wanted a new suit of clothes for a friend who had been in an accident and whose new spring suit, she said in one of my favorite phrases, was "badly ruined." Still another said—and I'm quoting her in full here—"It would be my desire to obtain a tent." There was a story behind the tent, it ought to be explained. Her husband was a former soldier with some ailment which would diminish in the desert air. She wanted the tent to go live in the desert with him.

The last of the ladies was a Mrs. Krumuskie—that's phonetic spelling—who must have been caught in the rush at the door and carried into the audience by mistake. She gave a very pretty exhibition of total confusion when Rumpelstiltskin, asked her what she wanted if she were elected "Queen for a Day."

"That's the name of the program," said Rumpelstiltskin helpfully.

"I didn't know," murmured the lady.

The master of ceremonies then repeated his request and Mrs. Krumuskie went into a brown study. My radio isn't equipped with a brown study converter so this registered in my vicinity as total silence. Finally she decided she wanted a spring coat, which was so sensible a request that there must have been some slipup in getting her up there.

The Queen, who is selected by popular vote, was the girl who wanted the tent. In addition to the tent, she got a night on the town starting—unless my ears were playing me tricks—with a bottle of orange crush at Bob Dalton's Elbow Room. Sounds like a real tear, doesn't it?

Besides selecting the queen, the audience, possibly the most obliging audience in all radio, also helps out with the commercials. One of them is a sort of Greek chorus which goes like this:

ANNOUNCER: Remember when the tablets get down to four.

THE GIRLS: Alka Seltzer!

There used to be just one queen on this show. Now they've got dozens—kitchen queens, front bedroom queens, backstairs queens, all kinds of queens. A vacation queen will soon be awarded what was described as "a royal trailer trip to New York." Offhand I can't think of anything less regal than a trailer trip anywhere. "This thrilling adventure," according to Rumpelstiltskin, will take four weeks. The queen's forehead will be laved periodically by a lady-in-waiting. You're at perfect liberty to disbelieve this. I'm just repeating what the man said. One other queen will be crowned shortly—the chicken farm queen. First prize will be two thousand pounds of mash.

For some reason, this brings to mind the remark of a New York newspaper photographer who was on hand to greet Queen Marie of Romania when she blew into town many, many years ago. The photographer posed her against the railing of the ship, looked her over critically and then said:

"You mind crossing your legs a little, Queenie?"

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 28—A special hour's documentary dealing with social diseases is being prepared for ABC broadcast at 9:30 Thursday night. It bears the title "V. D."

George Hicks, veteran at the microphone, is to be the commentator. The program is being produced with the assistance of the U. S. Public Health Service and the School of Public Health at Columbia University. Included will be recorded interviews.

A few days out comes an announcement that Larry Parks, who played Al Jolson in the movie story of his life, would be a special guest of Al's ABC program at 9. Now is another announcement saying that the guest will be Victor Moore. The only explanation given in the listed shift was that "Moore will replace Parks, originally scheduled for the guest spot."

Four folks of Hollywood are to help out in the Family Theater of MBS at 10 o'clock when the drama is to be "Their Only Sin." Gary Cooper will be there as "host," with Joan Carroll, Scott Beckett and Victory Jory all are to have parts in the acting.

Back will be Baker (Phil) with his latest version of what's a quiz show on CBS at 10. He calls it "Everybody Wins," although originally some reference was made to "Baker's Dozen" as a title.

The First Piano Quartet performs for a full half-hour (less announcements) for NBC at 11:30. This group also has a Saturday matinee show.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

"Queen for a Day," one of the jewels of daytime radio, is a vigorous audience participation show which has to be heard to be believed. I have a collection of notes on this program gathered during a spell of illness in which I spent a day in bed. There is no greater propellant toward health than a siege of day time radio. I fled the sick room the following day and much of the cure I ascribe to "Queen for a Day."

This program is presided over by Jack Bailey, who is described as the Rumpelstiltskin of radio, an obscure literary reference which I'm sure flies over the heads of most of the audience. Rumpelstiltskin persuades four young ladies—if that's the proper phrase for them—to step up to the microphone and confide their heart's desire, the one thing in the world they want most. These heart's desires are weird enough to turn over to a cardiac specialist; a radio columnist just isn't equipped for it.

One young lady—I'm still not happy with that phrase—wanted rattlesnake serum. Another asked plaintively to be permitted to ring a burglar alarm which gives some idea of the clientele. One babe—that's better—wanted to jump out of an airplane. (Accompanied by a parachute, of course). Another wanted to prospect for gold in Alaska. One candid little miss declared vehemently that she wanted a husband. Rumpelstiltskin dredged her escort out of the audience and clubbed him into saying "yes" to her proposal. They got married too.

The day I was there a girl asked for a hearing aid for grandfather. Another wanted a new suit of clothes for a friend who had been in an accident and whose new spring suit, she said in one of my favorite phrases, was "badly ruined." Still another said—and I'm quoting her in full here—"It would be my desire to obtain a tent." There was a story behind the tent, it ought to be explained. Her husband was a former soldier with some ailment which would diminish in the desert air. She wanted the tent to go live in the desert with him.

The last of the ladies was a Mrs. Krumuskie—that's phonetic spelling—who must have been caught in the rush at the door and carried into the audience by mistake. She gave a very pretty exhibition of total confusion when Rumpelstiltskin, asked her what she wanted if she were elected "Queen for a Day."

"That's the name of the program," said Rumpelstiltskin helpfully.

"I, didn't know," murmured the lady.

The master of ceremonies then repeated his request and Mrs. Krumuskie went into a brown study. My radio isn't equipped with a brown study converter so this registered in my vicinity as total silence. Finally she decided she wanted a spring coat, which was so sensible a request that there must have been some slipup in getting her up there.

●—●—●

The Queen, who is selected by popular vote, was the girl who wanted the tent. In addition to the tent, she got a night on the town starting—unless my ears were playing me tricks—with a bottle of orange crush at Bob Dalton's Elbow Room. Sounds like a real tear, doesn't it?

Besides selecting the queen, the audience, possibly the most obliging audience in all radio, also helps out with the commercials. One of them is a sort of Greek chorus which goes like this:

ANNOUNCER: Remember when the tablets get down to four.

THE GIRLS: Alka Seltzer!

There used to be just one queen on this show. Now they've got dozens—kitchen queens, front bedroom queens, backstairs queens, all kinds of queens. A vacation queen will soon be awarded what was described as "a royal trailer trip to New York." Offhand I can't think of anything less regal than a trailer trip anywhere. "This thrilling adventure," according to Rumpelstiltskin, will take four weeks. The queen's forehead will be laved periodically by a lady-in-waiting. You're at perfect liberty to disbelieve this. I'm just repeating what the man said. One other queen will be crowned shortly—the chicken farm queen. First prize will be two thousand pounds of mash.

For some reason, this brings to mind the remark of a New York newspaper photographer who was on hand to greet Queen Marie of Romania when she blew into town many, many years ago. The photographer posed her against the railing of the ship, looked her over critically and then said:

"You mind crossing your legs a little, Queenie?"

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"One way you cut down the electricity bill is to let me go out nights during the week!"

Individual Favorites, Mostly Oils, Rails, Prop Wobbly Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Individual favorites, mostly oils and rails, propped a wobbly stock market today.

Caution was the prevailing sentiment as the volume of transactions dropped to 1,400,000 shares, lightest since April 14. It was the nineteenth day this month that sales topped a million shares, and compared with 1,420,000 yesterday.

Skelly Oil, which reported first quarter net of $9.13 a share against $2.98 a year ago, jumped to a new 1948 high and closed up three at 143. Gulf Oil climbed 2⅛ at 71. Others with sizable gains included Standard Oil (N.J.) at 81½, Plymouth Oil 69¼, Mission Corporation 64¼, Rock Island 34⅜, Santa Fe 106, Atlantic Coast Line 55, Studebaker 23, American Smelting 58, International Paper 56 and Public Service of New Jersey 23¾.

Losses ranging to a point were offered by Union Carbide, Caterpiller Tractor, General Motors, Goodrich, National Distillers, United Airlines, J. I. Case and Air Reduction.

Selected railroad bonds advanced a point or more in a slow moving market that was otherwise mixed.

Individual Favorites, Mostly Oils, Rails, Prop Wobbly Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Individual favorites, mostly oils and rails, propped a wobbly stock market today.

Caution was the prevailing sentiment as the volume of transactions dropped to 1,400,000 shares, lightest since April 14. It was the nineteenth day this month that sales topped a million shares, and compared with 1,420,000 yesterday.

Skelly Oil, which reported first quarter net of $9.13 a share against $2.98 a year ago, jumped to a new 1948 high and closed up three at 143. Gulf Oil climbed 2⅛ at 71. Others with sizable gains included Standard Oil (N.J.) at 81½, Plymouth Oil 69¼, Mission Corporation 64¼, Rock Island 34⅜, Santa Fe 106, Atlantic Coast Line 55, Studebaker 23, American Smelting 58, International Paper 56 and Public Service of New Jersey 23¾.

Losses ranging to a point were offered by Union Carbide, Caterpiller Tractor, General Motors, Goodrich, National Distillers, United Airlines, J. I. Case and Air Reduction.

Selected railroad bonds advanced a point or more in a slow moving market that was otherwise mixed.

United States government issues were down slightly in over-the-counter dealings.

Damage Is Set Above $11,500

As fire losses totaling over $11,500 in the Tri-Towns area during the past three months were laid to arson, State Police last night intensified their probe of an attempt to destroy Luke's water tower with an explosive powder stick Sunday night.

The incendiary losses were revealed by Westernport's Chief of Police Burza Hanlin, who said the existence of an arson-inclined person has been suspected for at least two months. Loss in one fire alone amounted to $10,000, he declared.

At least 12 properties have been razed or damaged by incendiary blazes during the past three months, Chief Hanlin explained, adding Maryland State Police were called in on the investigation some time ago.

Little Evidence Found

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police, confirmed Hanlin's investigation report last night. However, he said little evidence has been uncovered in connection with the explosive stick found in the Luke water tower control shed or the two sticks that were thrown on West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company property at Luke last Friday.

All of the 12 incendiary blazes occurred, Hanlin said, after Walter Martin, mine operator on Westernport Hill, reported the theft of 100 sticks of explosive powder and as many dynamite sticks a little over three months ago.

Each of the blazes emitted a thick black smoke, common to burning powder, Chief Hanlin explained as he tied the Luke water tower and paper mill incidents up with recent fires in the two adjacent communities.

Loss in the fire-destroyed feed barn of Edward S. Moran, present Mayor of Westernport, amounted to over $10,000, Chief Hanlin declared, adding that expensive machinery was also ruined in the blaze. Moran was elected to office since the blaze.

Dynamite Caps Taken

At the same time the dynamite and explosive theft was reported, Chief Hanlin said, Martin informed police that fuses, squibs and dynamite caps were also taken. To date, the chief said, none of the explosive accessories has been found.

The explosive stick found in the water control shed Sunday was wrapped in a fire-charred piece of paper, which police said would have ruined the tower if the paper continued to burn.

The most recent incident of destruction by an incendiary fire, Chief Hanlin said, occurred several weeks ago when a Westernport community —owned storage shed was burned. Loss was estimated at approximately $500 by community officials who said town street equipment was stored there.

Sgt. O'Hara said Cpl. Harry Holsinger, who, with Trooper William Baker, is working on the case, again visited the Luke area yesterday in an effort to clear up several doubtful points at the water tower.

Luke's Chief of Police Joseph Wilks said a lock on the steel door of the control shed had been forced and the explosive stick apparently thrown in after the paper wrapping was ignited.

Local Dentists To Attend State Meet

Dr. J. Russell Cook, Cumberland, president of the Maryland State Dental Association, will preside at the three-day annual meeting of the association at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore, May 3, 4 and 5.

A number of members of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society are expected to attend, including Dr. William H. Ryan, president; Dr. H. B. Teter, vice president; and Dr. Karl W. Kolb, secretary.

Technical discussions will be presented at the meeting. Dr. Karl Heintz is the only local dentist who will take part in the program. He will participate in a panel discussion Tuesday morning on prosthetic dentistry.

The concluding session Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to individual table clinics on all phases of dentistry, conducted by 19 practitioners from the eastern United States.

Officers will be elected at the annual business session Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Cook, who is not eligible for re-election because terms are for one year only, is the first president of the association from Western Maryland since Dr. Heintz served in that capacity in 1930-31.

The session will be the 65th annual meeting of the organization.

Wastepaper Drive Continues Here

The fourth day of the Cumberland wastepaper drive will get underway this morning with all sections between Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road being covered.

Monday, a total of five tons were collected; Tuesday, 15 tons were collected and another 15 tons claimed for Wednesday.

The Weather

The weatherman says he doesn't want to be called a "weather monger," but he believes everyone should be warned that a frost is on the way and will probably hit the Cumberland area tonight or Friday night. He says he may be wrong, but all indications point that way at the present. Meanwhile he expects considerable cloudiness, some wind and cooler today with the weather clearing and the frost likely during the night. Yesterday was a damp, cool day with the mercury hovering around 43 degrees. The thermometer reading at 10 o'clock last night was 41 degrees, and sliding gently downward. The low for the 24-hour period was 40 degrees.

Cancer Drive Here Will Be Extended, Chairman Says

County Is Still Far From Goal

Although Allegany County's subscription to the annual Cancer Fund drive is only 19 per cent of the $12,000 goal, to date, the statewide campaign has reached 43.7 per cent of Maryland's goal of $230,000, according to Maj Gen. Philip Hayes, state campaign chairman.

As of last night, Allegany County residents had contributed $2,373.51 to the drive, according to William A. Gunter, county chairman.

Despite the scheduled close of the state campaign Saturday, the county is so far behind in its donations that contributions will be received for at least another two weeks, Gunter said.

He pointed out that Allegany County is the only unit which will be allowed to keep 60 per cent of local donations, to increase the facilities of the Cumberland Cancer Clinic. The remaining 40 per cent will be sent to state headquarters for use in research work.

Gen. Hayes reported yesterday that state-wide contributions amount to $100,572.41, adding that many of the committees and chairmen have not as yet reported on their progress.

The final report meeting in Baltimore tomorrow will be attended by Governor Lane, Mayor D'Alesandro of Baltimore and State Comptroller James Lacy.

Gen. Hayes warned that if the goal is not reached, some function or activity of the American Cancer Society will have to be curtailed next year.

"The population at large cannot afford relaxation in any of the cancer fields, whether it be research, detection, medical services or financial aid. We must achieve our goal," he declared.

Board Approves 127 Liquor And Club Licenses

Hearings On Beer Permits Start Today

Hearings were held yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board on applications for club licenses, retail liquor stores and bar rooms and taverns, with all old licenses renewed. A total of 67 retail licenses was issued, plus 60 licenses to clubs.

Fred Crowe, secretary to the Board, said there were a number of new applications filed, but these were rejected since there are, under the law, no more licenses to be issued. The applications had been made so they would be before the board in the event there were applications of old operators rejected, Crowe surmised.

The hearings were conducted quickly and with dispatch yesterday, quite a contrast to the long waiting by crowds which jammed the Court House a year ago. Crowe explained that the applications had been reviewed by the Board prior to the hearings and this eliminated considerable delay.

At 9:30 a. m. today, hearings on applications for beer licenses will get underway. These hearing will probably take a little longer than yesterday's since there are many more applications for beer licenses than for liquor. Applicants for beer and wine permits will be heard tomorrow.

As the Board cleared each applicant, licenses were issued in the office of Clerk of Court Robert Jackson. Hearings were completed yesterday shortly after 1 p. m.

Three Clinics Set Next Month By County League

The clinic schedule for May at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children was announced yesterday by Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary.

On Friday and Saturday, May 14 and 15, an orthopedic clinic will be conducted by Dr. George Bennett, Dr. George Eaton and Dr. E. David Weinberg, Baltimore specialists.

Dr. Richard Hutcheson, Washington, D. C., will come here Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, to conduct the third speech clinic to be held in Allegany County.

He will check the progress of children now being treated under the League's speech correction program, which was started last year. Miss Lois Burrack is speech therapist.

Dr. Edward Kitlowski, Baltimore, will conduct a plastic surgery clinic on May 22. Mrs. Annan explained the clinic was scheduled at that time so that Dr. Kitlowski and Dr. Hutcheson could confer on speech difficulties of children with cleft palates.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Annan reported that $7,308.55 has been contributed to the Easter Seal campaign, which is held annually to raise funds for support of the League.

The total is slightly less than the $7,978.77 which had been received at the same time in the 1947 drive. Approximately half of the 22,000 Easter Seal letters sent to county residents have been returned, one-third of them with contributions.

Mrs. Annan urged prompt return of remaining letters because campaign books will close June 30.

Radcliffe Woman Rearrested After Witness Returns

George Babbs Held On Bond Of $500

The return of a missing state witness yesterday resulted in the rearrest of Dorothy Radcliffe, alias Dorothy White, who faces two felony counts here, and setting of her bond at $3,000.

The Radcliffe woman was taken into custody shortly after George Babbs, co-owner of Babbs Motor Sales, 22 Wineow Street, was taken into custody in the State's Attorney's office as a material witness. He had been sought since the woman and two male companions were arrested April 6.

A short time after his arrest, Babbs, who filed a stolen car complaint with City Police April 1, posted $500 bond for his appearance in Circuit Court this term. Police later took Dorothy Radcliffe and Donald Kennedy into custody.

Both the Radcliffe woman and Kennedy were indicted by the April term of grand jury on charges of stealing the car and also for breaking into Babbs' business office and taking the keys and registration card to the car.

Babbs, according to police, disappeared shortly after the pair, along with David A. Shelton, Hanover, Pa., was arrested. Shelton was later cleared of the charge but was held in County Jail as a material witness.

Both the Radcliffe woman and Kennedy were released last Monday after the court ordered the case held over until the October term to allow time for the return of Babbs.

Kennedy posted $500 bond and Mrs. Radcliffe was released on her own recognizance, but ordered to remain in the city.

Shortly after Babbs appeared at the State's Attorney's office yesterday, City, County and Maryland State police were ordered to pick up the Radcliffe woman.

Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya said he arrested her as she emerged from a local pawn shop in the company of Kennedy. Taken before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., her bond was set at $3,000. Kennedy was ordered by Lt. Lilya to await call for disposition of the case at this term of court.

Fast Time Is Legalized In Entire County

Daylight saving time is legal in Allegany County, and places of business subject to a specific closing time must operate under fast time until September 26, county officials said yesterday.

County officials explain that action of the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday makes Daylight Saving Time or fast time, the legal time for all parts of Allegany county until September 26 at 1 a. m.

On April 23, the Board passed a resolution calling attention to the adoption of fast time by a number of communities within the county, and requesting or suggesting that the entire county comply, so far as consistent.

On Tuesday, this resolution was rescinded and an order passed declaring Daylight Saving Time will prevail in the county. The order was passed by the County Board by virtue of Chapter 448, Maryland General Laws, as passed by the regular session of the General Assembly in 1947, empowering the county commissioners to take such action.

The order declares, "official time for the entire county shall be one hour in advance of Eastern Standard Time."

County officials say that in view of this order, bars which sell intoxicants after 11 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, or 12 p. m. Daylight Saving Time, shall be doing so in violation of the county liquor law.

Telephone Worker Captures Six Live Red Foxes Near Flintstone

Did you ever hear of a fellow who went groundhog hunting and came back with six live baby foxes?

Well, Ray Riggleman, a lineman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, did just that early this week, and he has the "little fellas" to prove it.

According to Riggleman, he and two buddies, David Oates, 310 Waverly Terrace, and Ray Knapp, Baltimore Street Parking Lot, were out groundhog hunting last Sunday, when they spied the foxes going into their abode, a hole in the ground. This, at the time, didn't interest the hunters, but on Monday they returned to the scene and after digging about three feet, found the foxes and returned them to Cumberland, where today they will be turned over to an unidentified man, who expects to make pets out of them.

Riggleman, a resident in the dormitory at Central YMCA, says the foxes are gentle already and eat out of the hand.

Unlike the ordinary gray fox, the ones found at Murley's Branch, near Flintstone, are red fox and if larger could be sold at a substantial price.

Added Precautions Are Urged In Mine Report

Additional precautions to supplement recent safety gains at the Castle G-1 mine of the Big Vein Coal Company, Lonaconing, are recommended in an official reinspection report issued by the Bureau of Mines.

The mine, located near Lonaconing, has an output of 250 tons a day. It employed 71 men when reexamined in March by Inspector W. D. Baldwin.

Safety improvements completed between government examinations, Baldwin revealed, included replacement of broken sets of timbers along the air-course haulageway, use of suitable containers for carrying the permissible explosives, safe underground storage of explosives, recording of the daily fan inspections, prompt closing of air-lock doors, examinations for explosive gas and other hazards within not more than four hours before the first shift enters, placing of rock dust at strategic points underground for fire-emergency uses, and posting of escapeway-direction signs.

Among the more important recommendations were replacement of remaining broken cross bars along haulageways, bridle bars and throws for main-track switches, use of permissible blasting units and incombustible stemming, offset installation and safety devices for the fan, provision of an additional flame-safety lamp and erection of fireproof stoppings between the main intake and return air courses.

Potomac School Students Hold Orderly Meeting

Over 150 students of Potomac State School, Keyser, attended a meeting last night and heard the answer to their complaints from the West Virginia Board of Governors as read by Paul Hines, president of the student council.

After the reading of the communication, the students held no discussion on the matter, but instead disbanded in an orderly fashion.

The Board of Governors earlier in the week rebuffed the students for a recent walkout, which came as an aftermath of the dismissal of two students, who, it was reported, disobey campus rules.

First Transmitter Hunt Of Season Is Planned By Mountain Radio Club

The first of a series of transmitter hunts sponsored by Mountain Radio Club will be held here Sunday, afternoon, May 16, Ray Stine, secretary, announced last night.

Teams competing in the transmitter hunt will meet at Constitution Park that afternoon at 1 o'clock to begin the search for the hidden set which will be located within six miles of that spot.

Richard Himmelwright and Paul Custer will be in charge of hiding the transmitter and preparing the dinner for the members who take part in the field day. The transmitter, an army field unit operating on the four megacycle band with a power of five watts on radio-telephone, will be hidden within 100 yards of a public road.

The search teams, who will use converted Army aircraft receivers equipped with home built loops to be used as direction finders, must tune in the transmitter by moving the loops for a minimum signal and then got to another spot to get a second bearing. The intersection of two correct readings will locate the station.

Teams who fail to find the spot by 3 p. m. are allowed to open a sealed envelope which gives the location of the set—and dinner, Sine said.

Four new members have been taken into the club. They are Capt. Thomas Stafford, Paul Everline, Fred Beaman and Fred Mellott. The first three hold amateur licenses.

Eagles Launch Novel Idea For Mothers' Day

Members of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles are joining Eagles in more than 1,500 other American communities in a nation-wide campaign to make May 9 "the greatest Mother's Day in history."

For many years Mother's Day has been celebrated on a large scale by the Eagles, one of whose early leaders originated the peculiarly American custom of national observance of the anniversary almost half a century ago.

This year's unique Eagle Mother's Day celebration will receive its greatest impetus from a "Calling All Mothers" telephone drive in which every member of the Order, numbering more than 1,500,000 Eagles, will call no less than five mothers in his community.

Purpose of these calls will be not only to extend the Order's greetings, but to invite mothers everywhere to listen in Friday, May 7, when Ted Malone, American Broadcasting Company's radio poet, broadcasts a special Eagle Mother's Day program coast-to-coast, with a special tribute to Gold Star Mothers.

It is expected that 20,000,000 mothers, each one "personally invited" by a call from an Eagle, will be tuned in on the "greatest" Mother's Day celebration. The program which will originate in the ABC New York City Studio (11:45 a. m. to 12 Noon—EST) will be carried over the coast-to-coast network of 206 stations and can be heard anywhere in the United States.

Officials of Cumberland Aerie estimated that, before the day of the "Calling All Mothers" program, members of their lodge will extend personal invitations to at least 7,500 mothers in this area alone.

Physicians Differ Over State's Medical Needs

Dr. Maxson Claims Some Taking It Easy

BALTIMORE, April 28 — (AP) — Maryland's doctors wound up a three-day business and scientific conference today after getting a new warning that they may have to work harder.

Dr. Charles W. Maxson, president of the Maryland Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, said the alternative is to train more doctors.

The head of the state medical association reiterated an assertion made in a recent interview that some physicians may be inclined to take it too easy.

He underlined the problem in a talk to the association by presenting a statistical picture of medical manpower in the state.

Maryland has, he estimated, 1,784 actively practicing doctors. The estimated population of Maryland now is 2,096,900. That is one physician for each 1,175 persons.

Dr. Maxson said it is difficult if not impossible to figure out what the per capita potential should be for a doctor. During the war, the advisory board for the armed services calculated the civilian population would be adequately taken care of if there was one doctor for each 1,500 persons.

The state-wide figures show Maryland on the credited side of this standard, but Dr. Maxson said there are some other factors to consider.

In the first place, only 1,035 of the state's physicians are in general practice. The other 749 are specialists. This leaves only one general practitioner for each 2,025 persons.

Besides that, 189 of the general practice men are over 65 years old—perhaps beyond their prime.

The need for physicians is even more acute outside Baltimore, which attracts doctors not only because it is a city but also because it is a traditional focal point for medical men.

Maryland's population outside Baltimore is figured at 1,490,000. There are 602 active doctors in the field. Some 500 of them are general practitioners. This is one doctor for each 2,299 persons. And 107 of these doctors are over 65.

"I believe that Maryland can be served adequately with the physicians we now have if those physicians will take up practice more actively," said Dr. Maxson.

"As I said before, physicians are now more inclined to consider their own ease than they were formerly.

"They have heard of the 40-hour week. They are inclined to take their holidays and their weekends, and many will not make calls in the evenings."

The medical leader said an additional problem is getting the available physicians properly distributed.

"It is difficult," he explained, "to persuade a young man to take a rural position where he can make $5,000 to $6,000 a year if he can make $10,000 in another location."

Zone Board Grants Dennison Appeal

The board of Zoning Appeals last night granted an occupancy permit to J. E. Dennison, who sought permission to use a lot at 629 North Mechanic Street to erect an addition to his paint shop, located at 631-633 North Mechanic, for garage and storage space.

Board Chairman Joseph R. Mantheiy explained the permit was granted because a provision in the zoning ordinance permits a business use next door to a business or industrial use in a residential district.

A two-story frame building, occupied by two families, is located on the front of the lot. Dennison said the families are expected to move out by July 31.

After that time, he said, he will erect the one-story addition, when the present house is torn down. The addition will measure 42 by 106 feet and will be of concrete block construction with a concrete roof.

Owner of the structure now occupying the site is Charles Strong, who resides there. Dennison said he plans to begin construction on the vacant part of the lot and complete the work after the residence building is demolished.

Pension Plan Will Be Discussed May 3

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday a conference of the Mayor and Council with representatives from various city departments has been scheduled for Monday, May 3, at 2 p. m. in his office to discuss a pension plan for city employes.

The Health, Engineering, Water and Sewer, and Street Departments are expected to be represented at the May 3 conference.

Dr. Williams Hits Specialists' Fees

Attacking what he termed "exorbitant fees" of specialists and citing the need for aiding "sons of poor men" to become physicians, Dr. Richard J. Williams, 122 South Centre Street, last night said he could not agree with statements of Dr. Charles W. Maxson, president of the Maryland Medical and Chirugical Faculty, that "physicians are taking it too easy."

"What we need is more doctors and fewer specialists. When the astronomical fee incentive is removed from the field of specialization there will be more doctors in general practice. The fees of many specialists are ridiculous and completely out of proportion to the service rendered.

"A man can go out at night and treat a patient for a heart condition and save his life. The general practitioner might sit with him long hours and treat him, work over him and he lives. He can charge a fee of $10 or even $25 and it is paid with gratitude. On the other hand, if he charged $100 or $150 for his long vigil, he would be accused of being a robber.

Renders Greater Service

"But a surgeon, a specialist," Dr. Williams continued, "can charge $150 for a simple appendectomy, or $250 for removing a cataract, and get away with it. The general practitioner renders by far the greater service to humanity.

"Oft times the general practitioner is called out at night because some patient has purchased drugs at a drug store, or attempted to treat himself. In such cases, the family doctor, the general practitioner, rushes in when fever is rising and their is danger and alarm on the part of the patient and his family. He goes out late at night, at any hour, and fills the breach, renders a real service and fills the duty and obligation of his profession.

"I heartily disagree with Dr. Maxson," Dr. Williams declared, "that all medical men are conscious of a 40-hour week. There are still a few doctors working to help humanity rather than working to grab exorbitant fees. I still say, and I believe it is true, that no doctor should become a specialist until he has at least 10 years of general practice in general medicine.

"A young man graduate from medical school, serves his internehip and immediately becomes a great specialist. It doesn't make sense. The human body is an integrated machine with each small part dependent upon some other parts. A specialist only knows and often only claims to know one small part. He is not apt to become an efficient specialist without experience in general practices, going out into the homes, the highways and byways, where he can learn the true psychology of the patient and learn about doctor-patient relations. He must learn the basic fundamentals of human nature.

Cost Too Great

"There was a day when a poor man's son could take up the study of medicine. But now the requirements have become so high, the cost so great and the time so long, that this is no longer possible, Dr. Williams said. I knew boys in school and know some now who would almost give their right arms to be doctors, but they haven't a chance. Consequently, the best brains of the country are being barred from the profession and the entire human race suffers as a result.

"The hurdles for these boys are too great," Dr. Williams continued. "I believe such qualified, competent and willing young men should be subsidized by the state and given a chance for their own sake, but even more for the good of the people and the contributions they can make.

"I am not advocating state medicine, but I do advocate some sort of subsidy for young men with insufficient means to enter the profession. These men, willing to practice medicine for the sheer love of the profession, for the sincere desire to help humanity, to heal the sick, would render a far greater service than many of our so-called specialists interested in high fees.

"Cumberland has some very fine specialists, but is short of general practitioners. Cumberland's specialists are largely men who have spent sometime as general practitioners, and I believe they are good specialists because they have done so," Dr. Williams concluded.

Church Merger Vote Is Expected Today

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 28 (AP)—Members of the Pittsburgh Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in convention here are expected to vote tomorrow on the proposed merger with the Congregational Christian Churches. The matter was informally discussed at today's sessions.

Rev. George T. Fritz, pastor of the host church, told the Synod nine of the country's 34 Synods have voted approval of the merger, three of them by unanimous vote.

Although the General Synod of the churches approved the merger last July, two-thirds of the Synods must favor the move before it can become official.

Damage Is Set Above $11,500

As fire losses totaling over $11,500 in the Tri-Towns area during the past three months were laid to arson, State Police last night intensified their probe of an attempt to destroy Luke's water tower with an explosive powder stick Sunday night.

The incendiary losses were revealed by Westernport's Chief of Police Burza Hanlin, who said the existence of an arson-inclined person has been suspected for at least two months. Loss in one fire alone amounted to $10,000, he declared.

At least 12 properties have been razed or damaged by incendiary blazes during the past three months, Chief Hanlin explained, adding Maryland State Police were called in on the investigation some time ago.

Little Evidence Found

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police, confirmed Hanlin's investigation report last night. However, he said little evidence has been uncovered in connection with the explosive stick found in the Luke water tower control shed or the two sticks that were thrown on West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company property at Luke last Friday.

All of the 12 incendiary blazes occurred, Hanlin said, after Walter Martin, mine operator on Westernport Hill, reported the theft of 100 sticks of explosive powder and as many dynamite sticks a little over three months ago.

Each of the blazes emitted a thick black smoke, common to burning powder, Chief Hanlin explained as he tied the Luke water tower and paper mill incidents up with recent fires in the two adjacent communities.

Loss in the fire-destroyed feed barn of Edward S. Moran, present Mayor of Westernport, amounted to over $10,000, Chief Hanlin declared, adding that expensive machinery was also ruined in the blaze. Moran was elected to office since the blaze.

Dynamite Caps Taken

At the same time the dynamite and explosive theft was reported, Chief Hanlin said, Martin informed police that fuses, squibs and dynamite caps were also taken. To date, the chief said, none of the explosive accessories has been found.

The explosive stick found in the water control shed Sunday was wrapped in a fire-charred piece of paper, which police said would have ruined the tower if the paper continued to burn.

The most recent incident of destruction by an incendiary fire, Chief Hanlin said, occurred several weeks ago when a Westernport community —owned storage shed was burned. Loss was estimated at approximately $500 by community officials who said town street equipment was stored there.

Sgt. O'Hara said Cpl. Harry Holsinger, who, with Trooper William Baker, is working on the case, again visited the Luke area yesterday in an effort to clear up several doubtful points at the water tower.

Luke's Chief of Police Joseph Wilks said a lock on the steel door of the control shed had been forced and the explosive stick apparently thrown in after the paper wrapping was ignited.

Local Dentists To Attend State Meet

Dr. J. Russell Cook, Cumberland, president of the Maryland State Dental Association, will preside at the three-day annual meeting of the association at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore, May 3, 4 and 5.

A number of members of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society are expected to attend, including Dr. William H. Ryan, president; Dr. H. B. Teter, vice president; and Dr. Karl W. Kolb, secretary.

Technical discussions will be presented at the meeting. Dr. Karl Heintz is the only local dentist who will take part in the program. He will participate in a panel discussion Tuesday morning on prosthetic dentistry.

The concluding session Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to individual table clinics on all phases of dentistry, conducted by 19 practitioners from the eastern United States.

Officers will be elected at the annual business session Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Cook, who is not eligible for re-election because terms are for one year only, is the first president of the association from Western Maryland since Dr. Heintz served in that capacity in 1930-31.

Dr. Charles S. Beamer is the only local dentist now serving on the board of governors of the association.

The session will be the 65th annual meeting of the organization.

Wastepaper Drive Continues Here

The fourth day of the Cumberland wastepaper drive will get underway this morning with all sections between Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road being covered.

Monday, a total of five tons was collected; Tuesday, 15 tons were collected and another 15 tons claimed for Wednesday.

The Weather

The weatherman says he doesn't want to be called a "weather monger," but he believes everyone should be warned that a frost is on the way and will probably hit the Cumberland area tonight or Friday night. He says he may be wrong, but all indications point that way at the present. Meanwhile he expects considerable cloudiness, some wind and cooler today with the weather clearing and the frost likely during the night. Yesterday was a damp, cool day with the mercury hovering around 43 degrees. The thermometer reading at 10 o'clock last night was 41 degrees, and sliding gently downward. The low for the 24-hour period was 40 degrees.

Cancer Drive Here Will Be Extended, Chairman Says

County Is Still Far From Goal

Although Allegany County's subscription to the annual Cancer Fund drive is only 19 per cent of the $12,000 goal, to date, the state-wide campaign has reached 43.7 per cent of Maryland's goal of $230,000, according to Maj Gen. Philip Hayes, state campaign chairman.

As of last night, Allegany County residents had contributed $2,373.51 to the drive, according to William A. Gunter, county chairman.

Despite the scheduled close of the state campaign Saturday, the county is so far behind in its donations that contributions will be received for at least another two weeks, Gunter said.

He pointed out that Allegany County is the only unit which will be allowed to keep 60 per cent of local donations, to increase the facilities of the Cumberland Cancer Clinic. The remaining 40 per cent will be sent to state headquarters for use in research work.

Gen. Hayes reported yesterday that state-wide contributions amount to $100,572.41, adding that many of the committees and chairmen have not as yet reported on their progress.

The final report meeting in Baltimore tomorrow will be attended by Governor Lane, Mayor D'Alesandro of Baltimore and State Comptroller James Lacy.

Gen. Hayes warned that if the goal is not reached, some function or activity of the American Cancer Society will have to be curtailed next year.

"The population at large cannot afford relaxation in any of the cancer fields, whether it be research, detection, medical services or financial aid. We must achieve our goal," he declared.

Board Approves 127 Liquor And Club Licenses

Hearings On Beer Permits Start Today

Hearings were held yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board on applications for club licenses, retail liquor stores and bar rooms and taverns, with all old licenses renewed. A total of 67 retail licenses was issued, plus 60 licenses to clubs.

Fred Crowe, secretary to the Board, said there were a number of new applications filed, but these were rejected since there are, under the law, no more licenses to be issued. The applications had been made so they would be before the board in the event there were applications of old operators rejected, Crowe surmised.

The hearings were conducted quickly and with dispatch yesterday, quite a contrast to the long waiting by crowds which jammed the Court House a year ago. Crowe explained that the applications had been reviewed by the Board prior to the hearings and this eliminated considerable delay.

At 9:30 a. m. today, hearings on applications for beer licenses will get underway. These hearing will probably take a little longer than yesterday's since there are many more applications for beer licenses than for liquor. Applicants for beer and wine permits will be heard tomorrow.

As the Board cleared each applicant, licenses were issued in the office of Clerk of Court Robert Jackson. Hearings were completed yesterday shortly after 1 p. m.

Three Clinics Set Next Month By County League

The clinic schedule for May at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children was announced yesterday by Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary.

On Friday and Saturday, May 14 and 15, an orthopedic clinic will be conducted by Dr. George Bennett, Dr. George Eaton and Dr. E. David Weinberg, Baltimore specialists.

Dr. Richard Hutcheson, Washington, D. C., will come here Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, to conduct the third speech clinic to be held in Allegany County.

He will check the progress of children now being treated under the League's speech correction program, which was started last year. Miss Lois Burrack is speech therapist.

Dr. Edward Kitlowski, Baltimore, will conduct a plastic surgery clinic on May 22. Mrs. Annan explained the clinic was scheduled at that time so that Dr. Kitlowski and Dr. Hutcheson could confer on speech difficulties of children with cleft palates.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Annan reported that $7,308.55 has been contributed to the Easter Seal campaign, which is held annually to raise funds for support of the League.

The total is slightly less than the $7,978.77 which had been received at the same time in the 1947 drive. Approximately half of the 22,000 Easter Seal letters sent to county residents have been returned, one-third of them with contributions.

Mrs. Annan urged prompt return of remaining letters because campaign books will close June 30.

Heavy Fogs Slow Highway Travel

Heavy fog which hung over Western Maryland highways west of the Six Mile House yesterday continued last night, and police said traffic, reported "very light,' was moving at a slow pace.

Radcliffe Woman Rearrested After Witness Returns

George Babbs Held On Bond Of $500

The return of a missing state witness yesterday resulted in the rearrest of Dorothy Radcliffe, alias Dorothy White, who faces two felony counts here, and setting of her bond at $3,000.

The Radcliffe woman was taken into custody shortly after George Babbs, co-owner of Babbs Motor Sales, 22 Wineow Street, was taken into custody in the State's Attorney's office as a material witness. He had been sought since the woman and two male companions were arrested April 6.

A short time after his arrest, Babbs, who filed a stolen car complaint with City Police April 1, posted $500 bond for his appearance in Circuit Court this term. Police later took Dorothy Radcliffe and Donald Kennedy into custody.

Both the Radcliffe woman and Kennedy were indicted by the April term of grand jury on charges of stealing the car and also for breaking into Babbs' business office and taking the keys and registration card to the car.

Babbs, according to police, disappeared shortly after the pair, along with David A. Shelton, Hanover, Pa., was arrested. Shelton was later cleared of the charge but was held in County Jail as a material witness.

Both the Radcliffe woman and Kennedy were released last Monday after the court ordered the case held over until the October term to allow time for the return of Babbs.

Kennedy posted $500 bond and Mrs. Radcliffe was released on her own recognizance, but ordered to remain in the city.

Shortly after Babbs appeared at the State's Attorney's office yesterday, City, County and Maryland State police were ordered to pick up the Radcliffe woman.

Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya said he arrested her as she emerged from a local pawn shop in the company of Kennedy. Taken before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., her bond was set at $3,000. Kennedy was ordered by Lt. Lilya to await call for disposition of the case at this term of court.

Fast Time Is Legalized In Entire County

Daylight saving time is legal in Allegany County, and places of business subject to a specific closing time must operate under fast time until September 26, county officials said yesterday.

County officials explain that action of the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday makes Daylight Saving Time or fast time, the legal time for all parts of Allegany county until September 26 at 1 a. m.

On April 23, the Board passed a resolution calling attention to the adoption of fast time by a number of communities within the county, and requesting or suggesting that the entire county comply, so far as consistent.

On Tuesday, this resolution was rescinded and an order passed declaring Daylight Saving Time will prevail in the county. The order was passed by the County Board by virtue of Chapter 448, Maryland General Laws, as passed by the regular session of the General Assembly in 1947, empowering the county commissioners to take such action.

The order declares, "official time for the entire county shall be one hour in advance of Eastern Standard Time."

County officials say that in view of this order, bars which sell intoxicants after 11 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, or 12 p. m. Daylight Saving Time, shall be doing so in violation of the county liquor law.

Bar Association Plans Annual Dinner Tonight

FOXY-- Ray Riggleman, a resident of the Central YMCA dormitory, is shown in the above photo with the six baby red foxes he caught while groundhog hunting earlier in the week, near Flintstone.

Telephone Worker Captures Six Live Red Foxes Near Flintstone

Did you ever hear of a fellow who went groundhog hunting and came back with six live baby foxes?

Well, Ray Riggleman, a lineman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, did just that early this week, and he has the "little fellas" to prove it.

According to Riggleman, he and two buddies, David Oates, 310 Waverly Terrace, and Ray Knapp, Baltimore Street Parking Lot, were out groundhog hunting last Sunday, when they spied the foxes going into their abode, a hole in the ground. This, at the time, didn't interest the hunters, but on Monday they returned to the scene and after digging about three feet, found the foxes and returned them to Cumberland, where today they will be turned over to an unidentified man, who expects to make pets out of them.

Riggleman, a resident in the dormitory at Central YMCA, says the foxes are gentle already and eat out of the hand.

Added Precautions Are Urged In Mine Report

Additional precautions to supplement recent safety gains at the Castle G-1 mine of the Big Vein Coal Company, Lonaconing, are recommended in an official reinspection report issued by the Bureau of Mines.

The mine, located near Lonaconing, has an output of 250 tons a day. It employed 71 men when reexamined in March by Inspector W. D. Baldwin.

Safety improvements completed between government examinations, Baldwin revealed, included replacement of broken sets of timbers along the air-course haulageway, use of suitable containers for carrying the permissible explosives, safe underground storage of explosives, recording of the daily fan inspections, prompt closing of air-lock doors, examinations for explosive gas and other hazards within not more than four hours before the first shift enters, placing of rock dust at strategic points underground for fire-emergency uses, and posting of escapeway-direction signs.

Among the more important recommendations were replacement of remaining broken cross bars along haulageways, bridle bars and throws for main-track switches, use of permissible blasting units and incombustible stemming, offset installation and safety devices for the fan, provision of an additional flame-safety lamp and erection of fireproof stoppings between the main intake and return air courses.

Potomac School Students Hold Orderly Meeting

Over 150 students of Potomac State School, Keyser, attended a meeting last night and heard the answer to their complaints from the West Virginia Board of Governors as read by Paul Hines, president of the student council.

After the reading of the communication, the students held no discussion on the matter, but instead disbanded in an orderly fashion.

The Board of Governors earlier in the week rebuffed the students for a recent walkout, which came as an aftermath of the dismissal of two students, who, it was reported, disobey campus rules.

First Transmitter Hunt Of Season Is Planned By Mountain Radio Club

The first of a series of transmitter hunts sponsored by Mountain Radio Club will be held here Sunday, afternoon, May 16, Ray Stine, secretary, announced last night.

Teams competing in the transmitter hunt will meet at Constitution Park that afternoon at 1 o'clock to begin the search for the hidden set which will be located within six miles of that spot.

Richard Himmelwright and Paul Custer will be in charge of hiding the transmitter and preparing the dinner for the members who take part in the field day. The transmitter, an army field unit operating on the four megacycle band with a power of five watts on radio-telephone, will be hidden within 100 yards of a public road.

The search teams, who will use converted Army aircraft receivers equipped with home built loops to be used as direction finders, must tune in the transmitter by moving the loops for a minimum signal and then got to another spot to get a second bearing. The intersection of two correct readings will locate the station.

Members of the club last year usually managed to locate and ride to the hidden station in about an hour.

Teams who fail to find the spot by 3 p. m. are allowed to open a sealed envelope which gives the location of the set—and dinner, Sine said.

Four new members have been taken into the club. They are Capt. Thomas Stafford, Paul Everline, Fred Beaman and Fred Mellott. The first three hold amateur licenses.

Eagles Launch Novel Idea For Mothers' Day

Members of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles are joining Eagles in more than 1,500 other American communities in a nation-wide campaign to make May 9 "the greatest Mother's Day in history."

For many years Mother's Day has been celebrated on a large scale by the Eagles, one of whose early leaders originated the peculiarly American custom of national observance of the anniversary almost half a century ago.

This year's unique Eagle Mother's Day celebration will receive its greatest impetus from a "Calling All Mothers" telephone drive in which every member of the Order, numbering more than 1,500,000 Eagles, will call no less than five mothers in his community.

Purpose of these calls will be not only to extend the Order's greetings, but to invite mothers everywhere to listen in Friday, May 7, when Ted Malone, American Broadcasting Company's radio poet, broadcasts a special Eagle Mother's Day program coast-to-coast, with a special tribute to Gold Star Mothers.

It is expected that 20,000,000 mothers, each one "personally invited" by a call from an Eagle, will be tuned in on the "greatest" Mother's Day celebration. The program which will originate in the ABC New York City Studio (11:45 a. m. to 12 Noon—EST) will be carried over the coast-to-coast network of 206 stations and can be heard anywhere in the United States.

Officials of Cumberland Aerie estimated that, before the day of the "Calling All Mothers" program, members of their lodge will extend personal invitations to at least 7,500 mothers in this area alone.

Permit Is Granted For $18,000 Home

A permit for construction of a residence and garage estimated to cost $18,000 was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office to Mrs. Ward N. Hauger, Bedford Road, and Ward N. Hauger, Jr.

The buildings will be constructed on part of Lot 38, Block 24, on Kent Avenue, facing Brookfield Avenue. The two-story residence, will measure 40 by 28 feet, will have a concrete block foundation, brick walls on the first story and frame walls on the second story, and an asphalt shingle roof. The garage, 20 by 20 feet, will be attached in the rear. C. W. Kidwell, Route 5, city, is the contractor.

Conferences Set On Nutrition Findings

Dr. Clarence Velat announced yesterday that conferences with parents on findings in the nutrition survey being completed at East Side School will be held tomorrow from 9 until 11 a. m. at the school.

Dr. Velat is head of the United States Public Health Service nutrition unit, which studied 362 pupils in the second through sixth grades at the school.

A similar survey was completed recently at Columbia Street School. The nutrition unit plans to return to Baltimore tomorrow night.

Baltimore And Ohio Opens Lorain Dock

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on Wednesday formally opened its new $4,500,000 coal dock at Lorain, Ohio.

The dock, which constitutes one of the greatest single improvements on the B. and O. system since pre-war days, will facilitate the movement of coal over the Great Lakes shipping routes.

B. And O. Shows Increase In Weekly Carloadings

Carloads handled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad during the week of April 24 were 67,498, made up of 42,635 loaded on line and 24,862 received from connections.

The above figures show an increase of 203 cars handled over the same week of last year when the total was 67,294.

Physicians Differ Over State's Medical Needs

Dr. Maxson Claims Some Taking It Easy

BALTIMORE, April 28 — (AP) — Maryland's doctors wound up a three-day business and scientific conference today after getting a new warning that they may have to work harder.

Dr. Charles W. Maxson, president of the Maryland Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, said the alternative is to train more doctors.

The head of the state medical association reiterated an assertion made in a recent interview that some physicians may be inclined to take it too easy.

He underlined the problem in a talk to the association by presenting a statistical picture of medical manpower in the state.

Maryland has, he estimated, 1,784 actively practicing doctors. The estimated population of Maryland now is 2,096,900. That is one physician for each 1,175 persons.

Dr. Maxson said it is difficult if not impossible to figure out what the per capita potential should be for a doctor. During the war, the advisory board for the armed services calculated the civilian population would be adequately taken care of if there was one doctor for each 1,500 persons.

The state-wide figures show Maryland on the credited side of this standard, but Dr. Maxson said there are some other factors to consider.

In the first place, only 1,035 of the state's physicians are in general practice. The other 749 are specialists. This leaves only one general practitioner for each 2,025 persons.

Besides that, 189 of the general practice men are over 65 years old—perhaps beyond their prime.

The need for physicians is even more acute outside Baltimore, which attracts doctors not only because it is a city but also because it is a traditional focal point for medical men.

Maryland's population outside Baltimore is figured at 1,490,000. There are 602 active doctors in the field. Some 500 of them are general practitioners. This is one doctor for each 2,299 persons. And 107 of these doctors are over 65.

"I believe that Maryland can be served adequately with the physicians we now have if those physicians will take up practice more actively," said Dr. Maxson.

"As I said before, physicians are now more inclined to consider their own ease than they were formerly.

"They have heard of the 40-hour week. They are inclined to take their holidays and their weekends, and many will not make calls in the evenings."

The medical leader said an additional problem is getting the available physicians properly distributed.

"It is difficult," he explained, "to persuade a young man to take a rural position where he can make $5,000 to $6,000 a year if he can make $10,000 in another location."

Zone Board Grants Dennison Appeal

The board of Zoning Appeals last night granted an occupancy permit to J. E. Dennison, who sought permission to use a lot at 629 North Mechanic Street to erect an addition to his paint shop, located at 631-633 North Mechanic, for garage and storage space.

Board Chairman Joseph R. Mantheiy explained the permit was granted because a provision in the zoning ordinance permits a business use next door to a business or industrial use in a residential district.

A two-story frame building, occupied by two families, is located on the front of the lot. Dennison said the families are expected to move out by July 31.

After that time, he said, he will erect the one-story addition,when the present house is torn down. The addition will measure 42 by 106 feet and will be of concrete block construction with a concrete roof.

Owner of the structure now occupying the site is Charles Strong, who resides there. Dennison said he plans to begin construction on the vacant part of the lot and complete the work after the residence building is demolished.

Dr. Williams Hits Specialists' Fees

Attacking what he termed "exorbitant fees" of specialists and citing the need for aiding "sons of poor men" to become physicians, Dr. Richard J. Williams, 122 South Centre Street, last night said he could not agree with statements of Dr. Charles W. Maxson, president of the Maryland Medical and Chirugical Faculty, that "physicians are taking it too easy."

"What we need is more doctors and fewer specialists. When the astronomical fee incentive is removed from the field of specialization there will be more doctors in general practice. The fees of many specialists are ridiculous and completely out of proportion to the service rendered.

"A man can go out at night and treat a patient for a heart condition and save his life. The general practitioner might sit with him long hours and treat him, work over him and he lives. He can charge a fee of $10 or even $25 and it is paid with gratitude. On the other hand, if he charged $100 or $150 for his long vigil, he would be accused of being a robber.

Renders Greater Service

"But a surgeon, a specialist," Dr. Williams continued, "can charge $150 for a simple appendectomy, or $250 for removing a cataract, and get away with it. The general practitioner renders by far the greater service to humanity.

"Oft times the general practitioner is called out at night because some patient has purchased drugs at a drug store, or attempted to treat himself. In such cases, the family doctor, the general practitioner, rushes in when fever is rising and their is danger and alarm on the part of the patient and his family. He goes out late at night, at any hour, and fills the breach, renders a real service and fills the duty and obligation of his profession.

"I heartily disagree with Dr. Maxson," Dr. Williams declared, "that all medical men are conscious of a 40-hour week. There are still a few doctors working to help humanity rather than working to grab exorbitant fees. I still say, and I believe it is true, that no doctor should become a specialist until he has at least 10 years of general practice in general medicine.

"A young man graduate from medical school, serves his internship and immediately becomes a great specialist. It doesn't make sense. The human body is an integrated machine with each small part dependent upon some other parts. A specialist only knows and often only claims to know one small part. He is not apt to become an efficient specialist without experience in general practices, going out into the homes, the highways and byways, where he can learn the true psychology of the patient and learn about doctor-patient relations. He must learn the basic fundamentals of human nature.

Cost Too Great

"There was a day when a poor man's son could take up the study of medicine. But now the requirements have become so high, the cost so great and the time so long, that this is no longer possible, Dr. Williams said. I knew boys in school and know some now who would almost give their right arms to be doctors, but they haven't a chance. Consequently, the best brains of the country are being barred from the profession and the entire human race suffers as a result.

"The hurdles for these boys are too great," Dr. Williams continued. "I believe such qualified, competent and willing young men should be subsidized by the state and given a chance for their own sake, but even more for the good of the people and the contributions they can make.

"I am not advocating state medicine, but I do advocate some sort of subsidy for young men with insufficient means to enter the profession. These men, willing to practice medicine for the sheer love of the profession, for the sincere desire to help humanity, to heal the sick, would render a far greater service than many of our so-called specialists interested in high fees.

"Cumberland has some very fine specialists, but is short of general practitioners. Cumberland's specialists are largely men who have spent sometime as general practitioners, and I believe they are good specialists because they have done so," Dr. Williams concluded.

Church Merger Vote Is Expected Today
